Christmas season is no time of joy for suicides

DALLAS (UPI) — The frenzy of Christmas holiday activity, despite its ability to reunite families and spread the yuletide cheer, annually pushes many troubled people to the brink of suicide, a psychology professor said today.

"I don't think there's any question that you will find the suicide rate going up around Christmas," said Dr. William Tedford, associate professor in the Southern Methodist University psychology department.

"I think a person from the standpoint of good mental health is constantly comparing himself to other members of the culture," he said.

"What I think happens around Christmas time is very similar to that. It's not that his mood has really changed, he just looks about him. So many people about him seem to be happy. By comparison, his own lack of happiness becomes almost unbearable, it does make him more likely to commit suicide if he is already a borderline case.

"Or, he might go out and engage in some other type of antisocial behavior."

"If you try to draw a personality profile of someone who is most likely to become depressed at Christmastime it would be very difficult, but one aspect is one who is alone, who has no connection with other people."

"It's the interaction that makes Christmas what Christmas is. To a person socially active, it is not as likely to get sort of swept aside."

Tedford discounts the idea that depressed persons might be longing for childhood days, which they might consider better than their present situation.

"I don't know of evidence to back that up, I'd speculate just the other way," he said. "If a kid is raised where Christmas didn't mean much to him anyway, when he gets older Christmas probably still doesn't mean anything."

"If he got a real bang out of Christmas, and it was the big event of the year, and now he's older and isolated from his family, it doesn't seem to be any different from any other day."

He said suicide figures are hard to uncover because many families try to play down release of such incidents, or might pressure a coroner into ruling death by natural causes.

"But," he said, "you do get what appears in some data to be an upsurge in suicides running through late December."

Truckers threaten nationwide strike

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — More than 150 tractor-trailer drivers blocked highways in at least four states today and Monday to protest lower speed limits and increasing fuel prices—both of which, they said, cost them money.

More blockades were threatened for tonight.

In Los Angeles, the editor of Overdrive magazine, an influential trucking industry publication, announced a news conference later today at which he was expected to call for a nationwide strike by truckers.

In Blakeslee, Pa., state police said "things were moving" at midmorning near the small eastern Pennsylvania community where more than 100 trucks blocked busy Interstate 80 early today.

Police spokesman Jim Cox said there were no arrests as the truckers backed up both east and westbound traffic for 10 to 12 miles from 10:15 p.m. Monday until around 5:30 a.m. today.

In Cambridge, Ohio, this morning, about 50 tractor trailer drivers parked their rigs for 90 minutes on Interstate 70, backing up traffic for 2 ½ miles. The demonstration lasted from 7 to 8:30 a.m.

A small group of truck drivers was cited by authorities for a similar demonstration at the Monroeville interchange, just east of Pittsburgh. They agreed to move their rigs after talking with state police.

In Connecticut Monday, 12 truck drivers blocked Interstate 84 along the Connecticut-New York state border for 35 minutes. They moved on at the request of Connecticut police, saying that New York officers were abusive.

Lower speed limits mean lower salaries for truck drivers, particularly those employed by trucking companies, according to William Hill, national chairman of the Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers.

Those drivers are paid directly according to how many miles they cover, said Hill, and they can't cover as much ground in a given time at 50 mph as they can at 70 or 80.

Independent drivers — those who own their own rigs—are not directly affected, he said. But lower speed limits mean they can travel fewer miles overall, and thus can't contract for as many jobs as they would otherwise.

And independent drivers must pay for their own diesel fuel, which Hill said has risen from 27 cents to 42 or 50 cents in the last three months.

"The leader of the Blakeslee truckers—referred to as 'River Rat' or J. W. Edwards on the citizens' band radio—said he had been trying to get someone to listen to the truckers' problems and that a stoppage was the only way," a police spokesman said.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp last week ordered the state's 70 mph maximum speed limit reduced to 55 because of the gasoline shortage.

"We want a nationwide speed limit of 65, which is a good, safe speed for both trucks and cars," said Edwards. "We can save the country one million gallons of fuel daily. At 55, we are costing the nation about 2 ½ times more fuel. We use a third again as much going 50 or 55.

Edwards also said diesel fuel prices had risen to 74.9 cents a gallon at three stations along I80.

"We are going to shut off traffic tonight and do whatever we have to do," Edwards said. "Nobody moves except emergency vehicles. It wouldn't be advisable to try to force us to move the trucks."

5-hour ordeal ends as deputies jump burglar holding knife on youth

LA HABRA HEIGHTS (UPI) — A young burglar held a hunting knife at the throat of a 13-year-old hostage for five hours Monday night and was finally wrestled to the floor by a pair of sheriff's officers.

The officers bargained for the boy's life for several hours, then grabbed the burglar as he led the hostage from one room to another.

The exhausting drama was played out in the home of realtor James Messinger, 37, whose family surprised the burglar when they entered their house about 8 p.m.

Messinger said his son Scotty discovered the thief hiding in his closet and was quickly taken hostage and threatened with a hunting knife.

Messinger's wife, daughter and another son fled to a neighbor's home and telephoned the authorities.

Capt. James Farrell and inspector Dennis Cook bargained with the suspect, 23-year-old Richard M. Kivasu, for four hours and finally jumped him without injuring the youngster.

Kivasu was booked on suspicion of kidnaping, burglary and assault with a deadly weapon.

Excess use tax on electricity, gas possibility

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration is considering an excess use tax on Americans who cannot cut their natural gas and electricity consumption at least 15 per cent, Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., says.

Conte said he got the word from the man who has become the top energy adviser to President Nixon — William Simon. Conte and some New England fuel dealers met with Simon Monday.

Conte said Simon told him he was considering the excess use tax as one of several possibilities. He said Simon described the plan this way:

Homeowners would be urged to cut back consumption 15 per cent, about the same cut as is being imposed on users of some fuels that are being allocated.

The tax would be put on any use above the reduced figure— that is, anyone who used natural gas or electricity beyond 85 per cent of his current use would have to pay tax on the added amount.

Conte said Simon appeared to be a week or two away from deciding whether to settle on the excess tax idea, which would have to go through Congress.

L.V. looking for rides to, from city hall for employes

LA VERNE — The city has found a new outlook to public relations, one which is sure to save gas as well.

From now on city officials who have business with others away from their desks will be asking residents for rides to and from City Hall.

The policy is part of the city's efforts to save energy and City Manager George Caswell explained it to the City Council Monday night.

"For example," he said, "If someone requests the services of the building inspector, he might say: "I'll be glad to come. Why don't you stop by and pick me up?"

Other moves designed to save gas and energy include instruction to drivers of city-owned vehicles not to drive beyond the city limits, and to the street sweepers to pass up streets that don't need sweeping.

Caswell said the city hopes to cut its use of energy by at least 10 per cent.

Supermarket factions still are far apart; lengthy strikes predicted

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Strikes and lockouts that have closed supermarkets in Northern California and thrown picket lines around those in the south will bring shortages, higher prices and "a bleak Christmas" to consumers, a food industry executive predicted.

"No one will starve," added Robert K. Fox, president of the Southern California Food Employers Council, but "It looks like a very bleak Christmas."

Both union and management spokesman said the two sides are far apart and it appears the strikes will be lengthy.

Two separate, but related, situations prevailed in the northern and southern parts of the state.

In the north, most major supermarkets began closing down Monday because of a butchers' union strike against Safeway and Lucky markets. Clerks and other employes were refusing to cross the butchers' picket lines, said the Northern California Food Employers Council, which represents all the major supermarkets.

So the council called a lockout against butchers at all member stores, a spokesman said, forcing shutdowns as clerks and members of the other unions stayed off the job as a result of the lockout against the butchers.

The strike was in effect for butchers' union locals throughout Northern California except for Stockton, Fresno, Redding and Chico.

In the south, from San Luis Obispo to the Mexican border, supermarket employes were on strike or locked out, but most markets will continue to operate despite the shortages on the market shelves and in the meat cases, Fox said. "The consumer will find some inconveniences. You may not be able to find your favorite brands at your favorite markets," he said.

"The strike and the union demands will inevitably bring about some shortages and undoubtedly, sooner or later, will result in higher food prices."

In the south, the Teamsters, meat cutters, machinists and operating engineers unions— operating under an umbrella organization, the Food and Drug Council—struck Safeway, Lucky and Thriftimart.

Researcher says moon debris from Earth-Mars collision

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — The moon is the debris from a cosmic collision in which the planet Mars crashed into Earth, a researcher told a scientific gathering Monday.

Mars sideswiped Earth— perhaps punching a dent that filled with water and became the Pacific Ocean—about 4.25 billion years ago, said Dr. James G. Baker of Aerospace Corp., of El Segundo, Calif.

Mars lost about 14 per cent of its original mass in the crash, he told the 141st meeting of the American Astronomical Society.

The fragments, gas and other debris were swept into orbit around the Earth, and cooled and condensed into the body that became the moon, he said.

Much of the Earth's crust may also be of Martian origin, Baker said.

Ambulance crash shakes up victim second time

MONTCLAIR — Two separate traffic accidents today were almost too much for Jack Lee Daniels, 19, of 1278 Caprinto Way, Pomona.

In the first accident, reported at 7:30 a.m. at Monte Vista Avenue and Mission Bouevard, Daniels was one of two persons injured in a two-car collision. Daniels, suffering minor head lacerations, was loaded into a B and B Ambulance, driven by Donald Farrell, 24, of Alta Loma, for transporting to Montclair Doctor's Hospital.

A few minutes later, the ambulance, northbound on Monte Vista Avenue with red light and siren operating, started to cross Holt Boulevard when it collided broadside with a car going east on Holt Boulevard according to Montclair police. Daniels, in the back of the ambulance, and attendent Patrick Crawford, 20, of Covina were tossed around on impact. Daniels passed out and Crawford suffered a head injury, police said.

Another ambulance was dispatched to the scene of the second accident to take Daniels, Crawford, and another victim, Velda Carmichael, 55, of 10325 Leon St., Montclair to the hospital.

Police said that a third ambulance arrived at the scene of the second accident to transport another injured person, Joseph Sanchez, 41, of 4435 Denver St., Montclair, to the hospital after he was removed from one of the cars involved in the collision.

Highway patrol officers said that Daniels was driving his car east on Mission Boulevard when it collided with a second car driven by Rosie Padilla, 27, of 10206 Greenwood Ave., Montclair. Mrs. Padilla was injured slightly, but was transported home.

Montclair police said the ambulance and three cars were involved in the second accident that injured the three other people.

Police said the ambulance collided with a car driven by Mrs. Carmichael. The car and ambulance both spun around in the intersection. The car then travelled east in the westbound lanes, colliding with two other vehicles, one driven by Ralph Edward Lyons, 51, of 803 Allyn Ave., Ontario, and the other driven by Jesse Juveden, of 905 Sacramento St., Ontario.

Sanchez, who suffered head and face lacerations, was a passenger in Mrs. Carmichael's car.

Sanchez, Mrs. Carmichael, Daniels, and Crawford, all were receiving medical treatment this morning at the Montclair Doctor's Hospital. Police said the four would most likely be released later.

The accidents are still under investigation by the highway patrol and Montclair police.

INJURED IN AMBULANCE COLLISION

Montclair police and firemen place one of four persons injured in a four-car collision at Monte Vista Avenue and Holt Boulevard onto a stretcher. The accident occurred about 7:45 a.m. today and involved an ambulance carrying an injured person from another accident on Monte Vista minutes before.

More Ford layoffs result from strike

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. said today parts shortages caused by a strike in Canada has forced the layoff of 22,033 hourly workers who will return to their jobs when parts become available.

The Ford layoffs were in addition to the more than 177,000 workers being idled in the industry this month and in January because of slumping big car sales due to the energy crisis. The majority of the layoffs are for less than one week as automakers trim more than 100,000 cars from production schdules.

The auto industry layoffs should peak during the first part of 1974 and then level off as production of small cars increases, President Nixon's chief economic adviser said Monday.

"There will be a reduction in automobile production and our estimate is that it will be at its maximum now and in the first quarter of 1974," Herbert Stein told a Detroit news conference. "The demand for small cars is very great and the question is how rapidly can the industry convert to the production of small cars."

Ford said the indefinite layoffs would begin today as plants run out of engines produced at the Windsor, Ont., plant, closed since Nov. 23 by a United Auto Workers strike. That dispute was settled today, but a Ford spokesman could not say when engine production would resume.

The shortages will close seven assembly plants, idling 18,200 workers, and 10 manufacturing plants will begin curtailed output and lay off 1,508 workers.

The company said the shutdowns will cost it production of 4,100 Mercury, Ford, Thunderbird and light truck models a day.

The chairman of the council of economic advisers said the ability of the industry to shift to small car production will rise so that by the end of 1974, there will be as much production as if there had been no oil shortage.

"We think the auto companies will convert very rapidly," he said. "The threat of gasoline rationing is an incentive to get a small car.'

General Motors has announced 137,000 U.S. and Canadian workers face layoffs, all but 2,000 of them for less than one week. Of that number, 82,000 are at 16 assembly plants where production is being cut the week before Christmas and 57,000 work at supply plants.

Nixon, Romania president confer on Arab oil crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, recalling that his East-West bridge building started with his visit to Romania in 1967, welcomed President Nicolae Ceausescu to the White House today for talks about oil and the Mideast.

Romania could be helpful in smoothing approaches between the United States and the Arab world, U.S. officials believe, because unlike most other Eastern European countries which strictly follow the Moscow line, Bucharest maintains contact with both Arab and Israeli governments.

In obvious reference to Ceausescu's determination to make his own foreign policy, Nixon told him: "We both recognize that unless each nation has independence, and that it is not infringed on by others, there can be no real peace."

In the welcoming ceremony on the White House lawn, Nixon recalled his 1967 visit to Bucharest as a private citizen.

"It was then we talked of building a bridge between the East and West," Nixon said, and noted that the spirit of detente that brought him back to Romania in 1969 as President, and later took him both to Moscow and Peking, was born on that 1967 visit.

In response, Ceausescu reflected his own hope for more business with the United States to finance his independent foreign policy. Each nation, he said, "has a right to assert its independence, a right to economic independence, and the right to organize its own life as it sees fit without any outside interference."

On his way to the White House from Camp David, where he spent Monday night, Ceausescu had stopped off at U.S. Chamber of Commerce headquarters to witness the signing of an agreement establishing a joint U.S. - Romanian Economic Council.

The agreement provides that the Chamber of Commerce in each country will work with the other to provide information on trade legislation, promotion, and opportunities.

There are reports Romania might be willing to increase its oil exports to the United States from 2.9 million barrels to 10.2 million barrels a year. Even the higher figure would supply little more than a half day of U.S. oil consumption.

Love lost out in power struggle with Shultz

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's energy adviser, John A. Love, and his deputy have both resigned in an apparently bitter bureaucratic struggle over how to deal with the energy crisis.

The administration was expected to announce today formation of a new Federal Energy Administration to take charge of its energy programs. It will be headed by William E. Simon, now deputy secretary of the treasury.

Love's supporters privately told newsmen the former Colorado governor lost out in a power struggle with Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz. They said Love favored immediate gasoline rationing but Shultz did not—and Shultz won.

One Love backer said attempts were made "to muzzle Love" and that the plan for the new agency was put together "behind Love's back."

Shultz's supporters said rationing wasn't the issue. One official said Simon was chosen for the new agency because Love wasn't "getting action" and "just didn't do the job."

Resignations of Love and his deputy, Charles G. DiBona, became final Monday after several days of reports they were in the works. President Nixon accepted Love's resignation saying Love "has done an outstanding job under difficult circumstances."

Sources said Love was offered a post within the new energy agency or the job of ambassador to Canada. But Love, who resigned as Colorado governor last July to become Nixon's "energy czar," said he will return to his home state and practice law.

He said in a statement: "I fully agree that the time has come for creation of a new structure to deal with the energy crisis." He told CBS news: "I'm wishing Mr. Simon well." In a more revealing interview copyrighted in the Denver Post, he said of his troubles: "To be honest, it's been difficult to try to do anything meaningful and even get the attention of the President."

In other energy developments Monday:

—The drivers of tractor-trailers, protesting energy-generated lower speed limits and higher fuel costs, blocked two interstate highways near New York City. About 100 tractor trailers blocked Interstate 80 at Exit 43 near Blakeslee, Pa., in both directions early today to protest the 55 m.p.h. speed limit and the rising price of diesel fuel and the drivers of 12 tractor-trailers Monday blocked I-84 along the Connecticut-New York state line.

—A study group sponsored by the Consumer Federation of America urged President Nixon to devise a plan to ration gasoline immediately.

—Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers said in Detroit that gasoline rationing still can be avoided and a better alternative would be to let gasoline prices rise to discourage driving.

—The Agriculture Department said it has received isolated reports of farmers running out of diesel fuel or gasoline for brief periods in California, Texas, Nebraska, Tennessee, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, South Carolina and Maine.

3 from Valley among 8 held in sports wagers

PASADENA — Three Pomona Valley men were among eight persons arrested here Monday on charges of distributing illegal sports wagering cards in local shops.

Authorities alleged that the operation grossed between $15,000 and $75,000 a week.

The three are Jerry Camarella, 43, La Puente; Russell Morasco, 35, Glendora, and Martin Sarkissian, 40, Covina. The others are Frank Bruno, 70, Pasadena; his wife, Anna, 56; Richard Junine, 33, Pasadena and two juveniles.

The eight were arrested in a series of raids, one of which was at a beauty shop for dogs. The arrests concluded a two-month investigation. Authorities said four other persons connected with the alleged sports betting ring were still being sought.

Jaworski wants Nixon tape on ITT appeal discussion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski has asked for a tape recording of President Nixon's 1971 telephone call ordering the Justice Department to drop its appeal of an International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. merger, the Washington Post reported Monday.

Published reports said on Oct. 30 that former White House domestic adviser John Ehrlichman had ordered Kleindienst to drop the appeal, and when he refused, Nixon personally called, "ordering him in blunt language to carry out Ehrlichman's instructions," the Post said.

The White House said the telephone call took place April 19, 1971 and Nixon told Attorney General Richard M. Kleindienst he disagreed with the Justice Department view that "bigness per se was unlawful.

"When the specific facts of the appeal were subsequently explained in greater detail, the President withdrew his objection and the appeal was prosecuted in exactly the form originally proposed," the White House said.

The Justice Department settled the appeal of a challenge to ITT's merger with the Hartford Fire Insurance Co. out of court. It was widely reported that the settlement was linked to a $400,000 contribution to the Republican National Committee.

Pioneer 10 heads out on flight into solar system

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) — Pioneer 10, with a narrow escape from Jupiter's deadly radiation belt, soared away from the giant planet today, transmitting information which could shed light on the creation of the solar system.

The 570-pound, unmanned spacecraft accomplished an historic rendezvous the Jupiter Monday night after a 21-month, 620 million-mile space odyssey. Pioneer reached its target point 81,000 miles above the planet and then swerved away to continue its voyage.

Scientists at the Ames Research Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the closer Pioneer got to Jupiter the stronger the radiation belt became and the craft pulled away just in time. A spokesman said it had passed to a point of "near saturation" with radiation.

The radiation levels were hundreds of times stronger than could be tolerated by man. And scientists had said there was danger it could damage or ruin Pioneer.

The $50 million craft approached the planet at 68,000 miles per hour and, at one point, reached 82,000 m.p.h. The speeds were faster than any ever recorded by a man-made object.

After passing Jupiter, Pioneer headed into the planet's shadow, using Jupiter's gravity for a "slingshot effect" boost to propell itself.

Pioneer sent back thousands of pieces of data which scientists will study in hopes of learning more about the creation of the solar system and the earth itself.

President Nixon wired Mission Control saying Pioneer "has demonstrated that man's ability to explore the heavens is on the threshold of the infinite."

Tom Hehrels, a University of Arizona scientist who helped in the design of Pioneer's 10 instruments, said the craft took a final picture of Jupiter's mysterious "red spot" and this showed it to be "a towering cloud mass." But other members of Mission Control said the spot might be a giant shadow created by the clouds surrounding the planet.

A taxi ride for Romania's leader?

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The president of Romania, Nicholai Ceausescu, is scheduled to arrive in Hartford Sunday, but he may have to take a taxi into town if Mayor George A. Athanson has his way.

"The more I think about it, the more irked I get," muttered Athanson, a Democrat, who said that until Monday he had been cooperating with the State Department on plans for receiving Ceausescu.

Then, he said, he learned that a large-scale reception he had arranged was considered inappropriate and "all they want is for me to drive up to Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks and chauffeur him to Hartford."

Athanson said he was told that Ceausescu would be too tired for the reception and that he wanted to meet with the members of a Romanian trade mission.

"Look, if he wants to come to Hartford to meet with some other Romanians from Bucharest, let him do so. And they can take a taxi from the airport, too," the mayor said.

18 members of rock group jailed

MONTREAL (UPI) — Eighteen members and hangers-on of "The Who," a British rock and roll group, were arrested Monday after their hotel suite was smashed up, police said. Damage was estimated at $6,000.

No charges were placed and the group was released after paying the bill in cash. They left for Boston.

The manager of the Hotel Bonaventure said the damage was noted by his staff after other guests complained of loud noises at 5 a.m.

"All the furniture was broken," he said, "along with the plate glass windows, the TV, radio and the marble. They had just been throwing furniture out the window onto the patio."

Part of the the group's stage act has included destruction of their musical instruments.

Must press talks with Russ--Hammer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Armand Hammer, chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp., said Monday that America's efforts to improve relations with Russia and China must be pressed to a successful conclusion now or the opportunity may be lost for a decade or more.

Otherwise, he said, the hardliners on both sides probably will gain control and start the cold war all over again.

Addressing a seminar sponsored by Oil Daily, Hammer said, "We need not delude ourselves into an unreal euphoria about our relations with the Soviet Union. They are not going to turn capitalist and negotiations with them will be tough. They drive a hard bargain in all business dealings but once they make an agreement, they keep it."

Scali to extend hospitalization

PHOENIX (UPI) — John Scali, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, will not be released from St. Joseph's Hospital until Thursday.

A hospital spokesman said Monday that Scali was staying a few days longer than planned while arrangements are made for him to move into a friend's house here, where he will stay for several weeks.

Scali is recovering from open heart surgery performed Nov. 20.

Rich to appear on marijuana charge

HOBART, Australia (UPI) — Jazz drummer Buddy Rich was ordered Monday to appear in magistrate's court Feb. 18, 1974, on a marijuana possession charge, police said.

Rich, 56, was arrested at a hotel near here Nov. 30 and was released on $750 bail.

Rich is scheduled to leave for America Wednesday after a 10-day tour. Asked if he would return to answer the charge next February, Rich replied, "of course."

Texas governor, Iran envoy confer

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Iranian Ambassador Aredshir Zahedi met with Gov. Dolph Briscoe Monday to talk about the energy crisis and other matters, a spokesman for the governor said.

The two met in a closed-door session. Briscoe extended an offer of agricultural assistance to the people of Iran, his spokesman said.

Woman named to Columbia U board

NEW YORK (UPI) — Martha Twitchell Muse, president of the Tinker Foundation, was named Columbia University's first woman trustee Monday.

The Tinker Foundation concentrates its efforts on Latin American projects. Miss Muse, a member of the Council on Foreign Affairs, is a graduate of Barnard College and holds a masters degree from Columbia.

She will fill the slot left open by the retirement of the late vice chairman of the trustees, Percy Uris. Her term extends until 1979.

Police set up roadblocks seeking robbery witness

UPLAND — Police today set up roadblocks near Ninth Street and Campus Avenue to interview potential witnesses to the shooting and robbery of a taco stand and meat company owner early Monday at 152 N. Campus Avenue.

Detective Jerry Wulf said some motorists were stopped in the area in hopes they might have seen the bandit who robbed and shot Frank Roy Richards, 60, of 984 W. Buffington St., Upland, between 6 and 7 a.m. Monday. "We didn't have much luck," said Wulf.

Richards is listed in "fair" condition at San Antonio Community Hospital with gunshot wounds of the chest and face. The owners of the Richards Meat Co. and four taco stands in Riverside and San Bernardino counties was shot inside his office at 152 N. Campus Ave. by a bandit he described as a Caucasian, about 40, 5 feet 8, 165 pounds, wearing a blue jacket, a blue shirt and brown pants.

Police believe the bandit, armed with a .38-caliber pistol, waited near a service station at Ninth Street and Campus Avenue for Richards to come to work. About 6:30 a.m. Richards arrived and went into his office, followed by the gunman.

Police hope that someone might have seen the bandit early in the morning as he stood near the service station.

Police asked that anyone who saw any suspicious persons near the service station or in front of 152 N. Campus Avenue early Monday morning call the police department.

Persons who wish to report informatimn to the police about the robbery and shooting and remain anonymous may also call the We T.I.P. information line of 714-983-9611 or the toll free state T.I.P. line number 800-472-7785. Capt. Howard Seay said that anyone giving information that results in the arrest and conviction of the bandit may receive a reward.

Irate council may close restaurant

LA VERNE — The Cattlemen's Wharf, a newly opened gourmet restaurant at 1504 Foothill Blvd., may be forced to close next month because its builder has not complied with city requirements.

City councilmen accused the owner-builder, Howard Jochimsen, of "dragging his feet" in arranging for sewer connections for the restaurant and warned him that he is in for a tough time if he wants an extension.

The sewer problem is one of many that Jochimsen was confronted with at Monday night's council meeting.

Among other things, he was accused of failing to replace the sidewalk on Foothill Boulevard, failing to install street lights, failing to complete the parking area, and failing to complete the landscaping and sprinkling system.

Councilmen were particularly incensed at a report that Jochimsen, using a 10,000-gallon holding tank in lieu of sewer lines, was emptying sewage from the restaurant into his adjoining citrus groves rather than hauling it away.

"That's an outright violation of sanitary conditions, and a breach of our agreement," Councilman Harrison Sanborn said. "If these things are not corrected within the next 30 days, you'll have little sympathy from me for an extension."

It appeared almost impossible that Jochimsen could comply with that demand. Before he could build his sewer connection, he has to formally join the county sanitation district. All of this is expected to take more than a month.

Mayor Mike Morales took a more lenient position.

"Get started on the sewer lines and the street lights and the other major problems," he advised. "Then we'll take it from there."

"How did we ever get into this position?" Councilman Jack Russi asked. "How is it that this man is operating without sewers?"

City Manager George Caswell explained that the council had given Jochimsen permission to open the restaurant 60 days ago — using the holding tank instead of sewers — to meet certain opening obligations.

He said the special permit was granted for 90 days, "but we thought that by now all these things would have been completed and the sewer lines would be in."

Jochimsen contended he was confused by the procedures and that was the reason he had delayed.

Walnut board okays $5-million bond vote

WALNUT —A $5-million bond election on March 5 to finance a $16-million, five-year building plan in the Walnut Valley Unified School District was given formal approval Monday night by the district board of trustees.

The board also approved, in principle, the first phase of the growth plan which upon passage of the bond election would see construction of an elementary school on a site to be purchased in the Hills development in Diamond Bar.

Looking ahead five years, the district is accounting for an increase in student enrollment and an increase in assessed valuation to prevent the bond election from being outdistanced.

In approving the bond election, trustees are seeking to increase the district's outstanding bond debt from 7.6 per cent of Walnut's total assessed valuation to 10 per cent, which is the legal bonding capacity required to obtain state building aid. State funds would cover two-thirds of the district's building cost while the bond proposal calls for the taxpayers to carry one-third of the cost.

Based on an analysis of projected enrollment growth in the Walnut district, school officials expect Walnut to be eligible for 42,000 square feet of construction in 1974. After detailed investigation by the administration the Diamond Bar site, as one of six construction alternatives, was found to satisfy district objectives for growth with the least adverse consequences.

In evaluation of the six building alternatives, district administrators established lists of district needs and wants and judged how each alternative meets these qualifications. Each alternative was then judged on what its adverse consequences would be. The Diamond Bar plan was found to be the best solution to the district's needs and wants with the least negative characteristics.

Chino commission OKs zone changes for general plan

By MAE TATE
P-B Staff Writer

CHINO — The planning commission Monday night approved all recommendations for zone changes on 20 parcels here to conform with the general plan Monday night.

The planners finished the first item on the agenda at 10 p.m., settling zone change matters that were accepted by most property owners, except for an industrial-to-residential shift that may be appealed to the City Council on Dec. 18.

The zone changes were stimulated by a new state regulation requiring that the zoning map conform with a city's general plan.

Area 16, located at Chino and Monte Vista avenues, was recommended for change from light manufacturing to duplex or R-2 zoning despite protests from Bruce Lance, anattorney representing property owner Pete Di Sandro. The commission, by its move for R-2 zoning, denied a request for continuance of the matter from Lance.

The attorney presented the committee with a petition he said was signed by property owners in the area. He said 63 per cent favored manufacturing; 33 per cent wanted residential, and four per cent remained neutral. Lance reported that Di Sandro had purchased the property at Monte Vista and Chino, south of the railroad tracks, five years ago and had utilized it and a parcel obtained later for light manufacturing purposes.

He protested the R-2 zoning would not only represent a financial loss to his client, but also create a "residential island" in the midst of manufacturing properties.

Chairman Nancy Carpenter and commissioner Nick Medina questioned the validity of the signatures on the petition. They said there had been some confusion in a previous action involving this property in which some people signed two opposing petitions or signed without understanding the full implications of signing a petition favoring M-1 zoning.

Mrs. Carpenter then called out names on the petition, but no response came. Jeannie Perez, spokeswoman for the residential property owners in the area, told commissioners they were "wholeheartedly in support of changing the zone to R-2. Instead of creating a residential island, you're really making a continuous residential zone."

Miss Perez also questioned the petition's authenticity, asking if the older residents had been polled in Spanish.

"We ask that the City of Chino make this change. This would be one of the best things the city could do for the people of this area," Miss Perez concluded.

In calling for a consensus of the commission, Mrs. Carpenter said "the people in this area have been hassled enough with conflicting petitions."

The vote was 6-0 for R-2 zoning.

In other action, the commission:

—Tabled a zone change request from R-2 to R-3 for property at 13016, 13024, 13032, 13040 and 13058 10th Street. The matter will be continued to the Dec. 17 meeting until the Realtor Walter Schaaff and Gale Carr, director of planning for the city, can meet with residents along 9th and 10th streets protesting the change.

City Atty. Bill McVittie abstained from legal comments on this matter as he owns an affected parcel.

—Approved site development plans for the construction of La Victoria foods processing plant on the northeast corner of Chino and Yorba avenues. The total building will consist of 173,800 square feet and there will be 348 parking spaces. The plant will be developed in two phases, the first being the construction of a warehouse containing 50,680 square feet.

—Heard a presentation on the community economic analysis for the city as prepared by Real Estate Research Corporation.

Horse drags girl to her death

PORTERVILLE (UPI) — Brena Ferrell, 11, Springville, was killed Sunday when she fell from a horse and was dragged about one mile.

Authorities said the victim was playing steer roping at the L.A. Martin ranch near here when she fell from the horse and became entangled in the rope.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at a Porterville hospital.

Rites pending in mysterious death at sea

SANTA BARBARA — Funeral services today are pending for Burt Levin, a 45-year-old engineer whose body washed ashore Saturday at Rincon Point Beach.

Levin was the son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Gist Jr., of 458 E. Jefferson Ave., Pomona.

The Santa Barbara County coroner said Levin was found without identification by citizens walking along the beach.

After reading a Ventura newspaper article on a man reported missing at sea on Sunday, the coroner made contact with the family and identification was made through photographs taken of the deceased.

According to the coroner, Levin, of 2886 Bayshore Ave., Ventura, left home alone early Friday for a pleasure cruise aboard his catamaran to the Anacapa Islands, about 15 miles from Ventura.

When he failed to return Friday night, his wife Ann notified the Coast Guard and a search began.

The catamaran was found Sunday slightly damaged about three miles south of where the body washed ashore.

The coroner said the circumstances of Levin's death are unknown. The weather Friday night was mildly stormy, with steady rain after midnight.

The coroner theorized that Levin could have lost control of his craft in the storm, he possible could have struck something at sea, or he could have had an accident with equipment aboard the catamaran.

The body has been taken to the McDermott-Crockett Mortuary in Santa Barbara.

Council approves seismic safety plan

Via Verde: land problem status

By LENORE WALLACE
P-B Staff Writer

SAN DIMAS — Via Verde homeowners won the first round in the general plan hearings Monday night when the City Council approved the seismic safety element of the plan that designates Via Verde as a seismic problem area.

Consultants from Albert C. Martin and Associates, who were hired by Vinnell-Pauley, developers of Via Verde, protested at the public hearing that the Via Verde area is designated in the general plan as a seismic risk area.

Homeowners of Via Verde, testified there have been problems in Via Verde with slippage, sliding and cracking of the earth and in one case a house was split into five sections. Homeowners wanted the area left with the designation of a seismic risk area which would mean that all future development would be undertaken with caution and careful planning.

Damien Curran, representing Martin and Associates, told the council he felt the designation should be changed as there is nothing to substantiate it. He said there is no relationship between seismic safety and restrictions of land use or land use densities.

He objected to a slide presentation by Lampman and Associates, who developed the general plan, that showed photos of the destruction of the 1971 earthquake.

Curran said if earth shaking is a factor, then all of San Dimas should be designated as a hazardous area. He said the seismic safety element of the general plan was "perfectly incorrect" and there is no basis to use it on a land use map.

Mrs. Beryl Dick of Via Verde told the council she wasn't a geologist but she said "I can recognize a crack when I see one."

She said there is a quarter inch crack in her fireplace and a slump in her yard that raised the sprinklers four and five inches above the ground after the 1971 earthquake.

Dr. Mervin Ersher of Via Verde asked the council not to take the word of the "hired planners" of the developer but to take the advice of the general plan experts. He also urged the adoption of a stiff hillside development ordinance, one of the recommendations in the general plan.

Phil Wax, Charles Logan and Jim Clampett, all Via Verde residents, asked the council to uphold the general plan recommendations. Logan said the council would be taking an "ounce of prevention."

Mike Brotemarkle, representing Lampman and Associates, said all seismic hazards in the Via Verde area can be overcome by good planning.

Public hearings on the general plan will continue tonight at 7 and will conclude at 11 p.m. An additional hearing is also scheduled for Wednesday night.

City Manager Robert Poff said hopefully the council will get into the controversial land use element tonight after completing testimony for nine other elements of the general plan.

RICKOVER PROMOTED — President Nixon presents Hyman G. Rickover with commission formally elevating him to full admiral with four stars in Washington ceremony Monday. Rickover is 73 years old.

Congressional action

Rickover gets 4-star rank

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The four stars of the nation's highest available military rank were pinned to the shoulders of Hyman G. Rickover Monday making him a full admiral. President Nixon praised him as a man who "was not submerged by the bureaucracy."

Customarily such promotions are proposed by the Navy and the President and approved by the Senate. But in this case Congress broke with tradition and acted on its own without receiving any nomination from the White House.

Rickover, 73, has made many friends in Congress for his direct responses to their questions. But his frequent and open criticisms of other Navy officers and bureaus has made him numerous opponents within the service.

His friends in congress have protected him over the years. Two decades ago, Captain Rickover was about to be forced out of the Navy because it declined to select him for promotion to Rear Admiral. Several members of Congress appealed successfully to President Dwight D. Eisenhower to ignore the Navy's advice and put Rickover on the promotion list.

At a White House ceremony Monday, Nixon recalled Rickover's role in the development of the Polaris missile submarine against much opposition in the Navy. Nixon said American naval strength is great today "because his genious was not submerged by the bureaucracy."

Rickover, a Polish Jew who came to this country at the age of 4, now has risen to the highest military rank currently conferred. Five star rank has only been given to top World War II commanders.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who sponsored the four star bill and who was active in the promotion battle two decades ago, recently praised the admiral for working in government rather than taking his engineering talents into private industry. "He could have gone out and earned $200,000 a year, but instead he's given his service to the nation," Jackson said.

Fire, shock hazards in portable color TV

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Many portable color television sets carry a threat of fire and shock, the Consumer Product Safety Commission said Monday.

The Commission said that nearly 100,000 sets have been found during the past few months to have fire and shock hazards.

Richard Armstrong, director of the agency's Bureau of Engineering Sciences, told a news briefing that a major problem appeared to be design defects causee by the reduction in size of various components in the more compact portable models.

During the past few months, Armstrong said, manufacturers notified the commission of a series of defects: 5,000 17-inch color televisions with shock hazards; 9,000 18-inch color sets with a fire hazard; 23,000 color sets with a fire hazard; 4,300 color television sets with a shock hazard, and an additional 52,000 televisions with shock hazard.

Armstrong identified the brands as Admiral, RCA, Zenith, Wards and Philco-Ford. He did not specify which hazards were found in each brand.

Commission officials said the agency scon will set in motion the legal machinery to develop safety rules for such appliances.

Armstrong also said that 42 inquiries by the commission's field offices in a test survey of fire marshals produced 914 reports of suspected television-related fires.

Since the commission began operating last spring, Armstrong said, nearly 5 million production items, including the television sets, dishwashers, and gas-powered chain saws, have been reported to or discovered by the commission as safety hazards.

Boy, 'lost' in jail, wants a bar of soap

MCKINNEY, Tex. (UPI) — Charles Glover, a 16-year-old robbery suspect who has been in jail for 60 days without a bath or formal charges filed against him, says he wants his freedom and a bar of soap.

"He asked if I would get in touch with his mother and have her bring him some soap," said Nick Warden, his court-appointed attorney attorney who represented him in a hearing today.

"I told him the news media had expressed concern over his situation, and I think that cheered him some."

Glover was arrested Sept. 26, and taken to Collin County jail as an adult. Before his first court-appointed attorney could file a motion to have him released, Glover was discovered to be a juvenile, and taken to the city jail. Warden said the attorney was then told another had taken the case.

"There was a hearing sometime in the early part of October," said Warden, who learned only last week that he had been assigned to the case by the court more than two weeks ago.

"As soon as I found out, quite by accident, that I had been named the boy's attorney, I filed a writ" to gain his release, Warden said.

Warden said part of the problem has apparently been a rewriting of the state juvenile code.

"We have a new juvenile code and they (county officials) are apparently trying to get organized under it and apparently the boy just got lost. His attitude is pretty good for a boy who has been kept by himself with no one to talk to for 60 days," he said.

Egypt, Israel still deadlocked in talks

By United Press International

Israel and Egypt showed little sign today of easing their hardline positions on the deadlocked truce talks, with officials in Tel Aviv and Cairo looking to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's mid-December peace mission to break the impasse.

The hardening positions followed two days of heavy fighting on the Syrian front and sporadic battles Monday between Israeli and Egyptian troops along both banks of the Suez Canal.

An Israeli military spokesman said Syrian forces opened fire with machine guns and artillery along the northern cease-fire lines Monday for the second day in a row, wounding two of Tel Aviv's soldiers. He reported no casualties in the fighting with Egyptian troops and said only small weapons were involved.

Egyptian sources said next week's visit by Kissinger, who arranged the Nov. 11 truce talks that broke off last week, was an 11th hour attempt to save a full-scale Middle East peace conference scheduled for Dec. 18 in Geneva. They said it was up to Kissinger to break the current impasse and save the conference.

55 m.p.h. limit bill in Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate now has for consideration another bill to establish a nationwide maximum 55 mile-an-hour speed limit for cars, buses and trucks in response to the current energy situation.

The bill was passed by a voice vote in the House Monday and sent to the Senate although it previously dealt with the speed limit question in considering legislation giving President Nixon emergency powers to deal with energy shortages. It did not, however, set specific maximum speed limits as the House measure would.

The subcommittee members also decided to impose the national speed limit on all highways financed in whole or in part by federal funds, including authorization for the transportation secretary to withhold approval of highway projects in any state not in compliance with the federal speed law 60 days after it goes into effect.

The 55 m.p.h. limit would remain in effect until June 30, 1975, or until the President declares that the energy emergency no longer exists.

Hefner life-style doesn't

Playboy rival to make it after shaky financial start

CHICAGO (UPI) — Gallery Magazine, $1.5 million in debt after a year on the market, has switched distributors, tightened its budget and President Ronald L. Fenton says his product will make it as a rival to Playboy.

Fenton said in an interview Monday that Gallery has signed a contract with Capital Distributing Co. to publish its editions beginning with the January 1974 issue. The magazine previously was expected to stop publication at the end of this year.

Fenton said if Gallery maintains its 750,000 monthly circulation and slightly increases its advertising revenue in 1974, it will net "in excess of $1 million profit."

Gallery ranks fourth in circulation behind Playboy (6.7 million), Penthouse (3.4 million) and Playboy's sister publication, "Oui," among men's magazines. Gallery attempts to follow Playboy's editorial format, but it relies heavily on photographs of nude women to attract male readers.

Fenton, a balding, 5-foot-6, 39 year-old who formerly headed a computer company, started Gallery with trial attorney F. Lee Bailey as a minority partner, in 1969. The first issue was published in October of 1972. Bailey left when the money troubles hit.

But Fenton, faced with rising paper costs and lack of advertising last spring, abandoned his custom-made limousine, stopped throwing parties, quit drinking and settled into a 16-hour a day work routine.

"The idea was appealing to me at first, but I've since found out that the Hugh Hefner life style is not where it's at and I don't want to be there," Fenton said.

Hefner is the founder of Playboy magazine.

Studies scheduled into safety of the site for the Chino Hills jetport

CHINO — A jetport being proposed in the Chino Hills will not be constructed there should the site be found unfeasible or unsafe.

Reg Wood, president of the Chino Hills Airport Complex, a non-profit group, gave that assurance during a recent meeting sponsored by the San Beranardino County Planning Commission.

A series of studies will be made, which will include both aesthetic and seismic conditions, he noted. "If these studies prove the airport is unfeasible or unsafe, we don't want it."

Wood, who described himself as the instigator of the proposed airport, said the cities of Chino, Anaheim and Stanton have signed as governmental sponsors for the inital stage, thus making the project eligible for Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) funding for such studies.

These cities, he added, have agreed there is the possibility that an airport may be built on the site and they are "going along" until the environmental impact study and other reports are completed.

He estimated the study cost at between $900,000 and $1 million, with two-thirds possibly coming from FAA funds. The non-profit corporation will make contributions to the sponsoring cities to offset any costs they may incur.

County planners had previously reported there are a number of faults in the proposed airport site, with most being inactive. The county has contracted with the state to get more definitive locations of faults within the San Bernardino Valley.

Wood spoke during the second in a series of public meetings being conducted to gather testimony regarding a new general plan proposed for the Chino Hills.

The study area encompasses about 40 square miles and is generally bounded by the Los Angeles, Orange and Riverside county lines, Santa Ana River and the Corona Expressway.

The proposed plan does not include the airport site since an environemntal impact study hasn't been filed, officials explained.

The airport, however, is proposed to occupy 4,000 acres which straddles the Orange San Bernardino county line. The site is four miles northeast of Yorba Linda and four miles southwest of Los Serranos.

The group plans to build two 12,000-foot runways to handle 100,000 commercial operations and 20,000 general aviation operations a year.

Wood met strong opposition at the hearing, conducted at Los Serranos School, by city and county officials, and residents who prefer the Chino Hills remain an open or wilderness area.

Mayor Carolyn Ewing of Yorba Linda, expressing opposition, said the airport would destroy area residents' present lifestyles with the heavy ground congestion and increased commercial developments.

Dick Toelle, member of the Prevent the Airport through Chino Hills (PATCH), said the airport isn't needed. The site, he added, is 12 miles from Ontario International Airport.

Ray Rhodes, assistant to Orange County Supervisor Ralph Dietrich, and Corona City Council member Jim Rust both reported these groups had opposed the airport's development.

Francis Davis of the FAA told the audience that agency would deal with the cities ratherthan the Chino Hills Airport Complex, Inc., in the application of study funds.

Every request, however, is no honored, he added. "We do make funds available for the study of airports."

The Planning Commission took no action regarding the airport or proposed general plan. Members scheduled a third hearing for Jan. 10 at 2 p.m. in the commission chambers in San Beranrdino.

Energy crisis to affect Transportation Dept.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Department of Transportation said Monday that the energy crisis would cause widespread layoffs of its workers and result in a reduction in statewide highway construction.

James A. Moe, director of the 17,600-man department, said its staff would be reduced by as many as 3,500 positions, with up to 2,000 of those through layoff beginning in May.

The energy crisis and reduced federal funding could mean a reduction of up to $250 million in the state's $930 million highway program, he added.

Current state revenue estimates from fuel taxes are down by 15 per cent, Moe said. "In addition, there is a possibility that these estimates could be further reduced by an additional 15 per cent, which would mean severe decreases in the budget adopted by the California Highway Commission," he said.

"There is no doubt that the highway construction program will be affected and that projects will have to be postponed," Moe said.

"Although we do not know at this time which projects will be affected, we have begun a review of our program priorities, tradeoffs between programs, and the identification of additional potential revenue sources," he added.

The department gets its income from federal government grants and motor vehicle fuel taxes and license taxes levied by the state.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A shortage of materials to make cables, generators and other basic electrical equipment is aggravating the energy crisis, the National Electrical Manufacturers Association, said Monday. In a statement prepared for submission to Congress, the association, which represents 540 companies, said these shortages are so severe they may result in serious unemployment in the electrical manufacturing industry, which currently employs 2.4 million workers.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The basic cause of the oil crisis, other than the Arab embargo, has been the failure to develop alternate sources of energy rapidly enough, President Clifton C. Garvin, Jr., of Exxon Corp. said Monday. In a speech at the Columbia University Business School, Garvin said that five years ago it was predicted that coal consumption would grow by 4 per cent a year but actually it has grown by only 1 per cent annually. He said the development of nuclear energy plants has similarly lagged behind predictions and these failures have caused demand for oil to surge enormously.

BURLINGAME, California (UPI) — Hyatt Corp. has contracted to manage a 960-unit hotel near Disney World at Orlando, Fla., for Cameron-Brown Co., the Raleigh, N.C., mortage banking house, which recently acquired it.

KING OF PRUSSIA, Pa. (UPI) — Warner and Swasey Co. said it will expand production at its Weidemann division here and add 50 workers. The company makes numerically controlled turret punch presses. The expansion will be financed through an industrial bond issue of the Montgomery County Industrial Development Authority.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Amrep Corp., a country-wide housing and community developer, is launching its first European project, a $10 million condominium community near Marbella on the road to Cadiz on the Mediterranean coast of Spain.

MONTREAL (UPI) — Bombardier, Ltd., the snowmobile manufacturer, announced it is withdrawing some factory snowmobile racing because of the fuel shortage.

Pomona to offer recital, concert

CLAREMONT — Pomona College will present two free musical programs this week—an organ recital Wednesday and a student-faculty concert Thursday. Both programs will be in Bridges Hall of Music at 8:15.

McVey will play a program of romantic and contemporary music designed to show off the capabilities of the refurbished organ. Included are the Choral No. 2 in B Minor by the French organist Cesar Franck, Mendelssohn's Sonata No. 2 in C Minor, Sokola's Passacaglia quasi Toccata on a theme of Bach, and the Fuge, Kanzone and Epilog for organ, violin solo, and female voices by Karg-Elert. Also featured will be Herman Berlinski's "The Burning Bush," a work included in the inaugural recital of the organ at Philharmonic Hall in New York's Lincoln Center, and the Prelude and Fantasia by Karl Kohn, composer-in-residence at Pomona College.

Three sonatas by Pulitzer Prize-winning American composer Eliott Carter will be performed by students and faculty members.

Carter is genrally regarded as one of the world's finest living composers. The concert will include the Piano Sonata (1946), Sonata for Cello and Piano (1948), and the Sonata for Flute, Oboe, Cello, and Harpsichord (1952). The performers are Edna Sugihara, flute; Allan Vogel, oboe; Mary Ann Campbell, cello, and Eugene Carl, piano and harpsichord. Vogel is a faculty member at Pomona College.

The Piano Sonata was conceived as a virtuoso work designed to exploit the peculiar potentialities of the piano. Harmonic materials were chosen for their sonorous possibilities, with particular attention given to resonant pedal effects. Irregular rhythmic patterns are a prominent feature.

Rhythm becomes an even more important element in the Cello Sonata and the Sonata for Flute, Oboe, Cello, and Harpsichord. Carter had become influenced by ethnic music, in particular Indian talas, the Arabic durub, Balinese gamelans, and the African Watusi. During this time, he worked out a technique known as "metric modulation," whereby one meter would superimpose itself upon another and eventually become the dominant meter. The result was a continuously evolving rhythmic continuity.

Robbers rejected cash, wanted gas

CLOVIS, Calif. (UPI) — Bandits who threatened service station attendant Larry Gilbert with a switchblade knifes were not interested in his money— just his gasoline.

Gilbert, 57, said Tuesday that the two men drove into his Gulf service station, accosted him with a knife and demanded five gallons of gasoline be pumped into their auto.

They drove off with $2.03 worth of stolen gasoline.

Peter Serkin to play with Philharmonic

LOS ANGELES — Pianist Peter Serkin will be soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic, directed by Zubin Mehta, in concerts at the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center at 8:30 p.m. Thursday and at 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Serkin will play Messiaen's "Oiseaux exotiques' and Mozart's Piano Concerto in B Flat, K. 595. The orchestra will perform Mozart's Symphony No. 40.

"Oiseaux exotiques" (exotic birds) employs two of Massiaen's most prominent compositional characteristics, the use of bird calls and of Hindu rhythms. The piece, scored for woodwinds, brass and percussion, also features two clarinets and an xylophone, as well as solo piano.

Serkin studied piano with his father Rudolph, as well as with Lee Luvisi and Mieczyslaw Horszowski at Philadelphia's Curtis Institute of Music. He made his first public appearance at 12. Now, at 26, he is an active concert artist with a repertoire that ranges from Baroque to contemporary. He has performed with the major American orchestras, and abroad with the Amsterdam Concertgebouw, the Japan Philharmonic and the English Chamber Orchestra. Serkin first appeared with the Philharmonic in 1966 at Hollywood Bowl playing Bartok's Third Concerto.

At the Shubert

Tucker to star in Miller play

CENTURY CITY "That Championship Season," which won three awards on Broadway, opens a seven-week engagement at the Shubert Theater Wednesday night. There will be a pre-opening performance at 8:30 tonight and a matinee at 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

Forrest Tucker stars in the new Jason Miller play which has won the Pulitzer Prize, the Tony Award and the New York Drama Critic's Award.

Tucker, as the Coach, heads a cast consisting of Phillip R. Allen, George Dzundza, Joseph Mascolo and Bernie McInerey.

"That Championship Season" brings together at a meeting in the Coach's home the members of a former championship high school basketball team. The reunion develops into a sentimental 20th reunion. The night quickly turns to violence as painful secrets are revealed and hopes are blasted.

The play is brought here by the New York Shakespeare Festival. Joseph Papp is producer. The director is A. J. Antoon and the setting is by Samto Loquasto. Costumes are by Theoni V. Aldredge and lighting by Ian Cladero.

Miller has laced his play liberally with sinewy, masculine humor. There are laughs as well as gasps and frequently that accolade from the audience, dead silence. "That Championship Season" has been acclaimed by critics in the United States and Canada as the best American play since "Death of a Salesman."

Some hands automatic

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand was played at New York's Cavendish Club some 40 years ago.

The bidding was simple, but would go the same way today in any sort of game. Some hands just bid automatically.

West opened the ace of hearts and continued the suit. East won that second trick with his queen and led the king.

South ruffed with the queen at which point West made a remark that has given a particularly bad play a name it still holds.

West plopped on the king and remarked, "No better place for it."

He was partly right. From declarer's standpoint there was no better place for his. South won the diamond return; drew trumps with two leads and chalked up game and rubber.

West did have a much better place for that king of trumps. He should have kept it right in his hand. Later on when South played trumps West would still collect a trick with the king, but he would score another and the setting trick with his ten spot.

What's more, when West overruffed he should have seen that a discard would insure two trump tricks for him. He might well have seen this if he had just concentrated on the play and not bothered to talk.

Red paint splashed at oil company

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Red paint was splashed in the reception area of Occidental Petroleum Co. headquarters recently, purportedly as a protest against the deals with the Soviet Union made by Dr. Armand Hammer, the corporation's chairman.

Two young men wearing ski masks entered the room and splashed the paint about without a word, said receptionist Mary Jo Esposito. Some of the paint spattered her clothes and hair.

The Associated Press later received a telephone call from a man who said the Jewish Defense League was responsible, in retaliation for the "persecution of the Jews" by Hammer. A JDL spokesman denied it.

Hammer, whose contacts with the Soviets go back to Lenin, is one of the leading exponents of more Russo-American trade. He negotiated a multi-billion dollar fertilizer-gas deal with the Soviet government. When he spoke to the Petroleum Club Tuesday, crediting greater trade for the East-West detente, he was heckled by youths who said they were from the Jewish Defense League, and that other actions against him would follow.

$35,000 settlement for pizza death

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — A settlement of $35,000 was made recently in a damage suit brought by the widow and three children of a man who died of food poisoning after eating pizza in a Ridgecrest restaurant.

The parties involved stipulated the widow and children of Melvin Soulsburg, 62, will receive $28,000 from the Miracle City Restaurant and $6,500 from Neithart Meat Co. and Fairmont Food Corp., both of Los Angeles.

Ford also faces issue of constitutionality

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional confirmation of House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford to be vice president comes up for final approval next Thursday.

But the same constitutional issue raised in the Senate about the nomination of Sen. William B. Saxbe to be attorney general could come up on the House floor when Ford is voted on.

Ford's nomination was approved by the House Judiciary Committee Thursday, 29-8, and committee chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., set Dec. 6 for a floor vote, subject to clearance by the House Rules Committee. The Senate approved the Ford nomination Tuesday, 92 to 3.

During debate, Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., said the present Congress voted to increase the pension of the vice president, an apparent violation of a constitutional provision that no member of Congress can be appointed to a civil office when compensation for that office was increased during the member's term.

The same objection has been raised to the nomination of Saxbe, an Ohio Repbublican, who voted to raise the pay of Cabinet members.

Rodino said the question came up before the Senate approved Ford's nomination and that legal advisers said then that the vice presidency is not a civil office. In any case, he said, the pension increase went to civil service employes and members of the legislative branch but not to the vice president.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., not a committee member, demanded in a statement that Rodino reopen hearings on the nomination because of the pension increase question and she said she is "looking into the possibility of court action to test the constitutionality" of the nomination.

Voting against Ford, in addition to Miss Holtzman, were liberal Democrats: Reps. Robert Kastenmeier, Wis., Don Edwards, Calif., John Conyers Jr., Mich., Jerome Waldie, Calif., Robert Drinan, Mass., Charles B. Rangel, N.Y., and Barbara Jordan, Tex. Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, voted present.

POISED for the tough questions, Julie Nixon Eisenhower has emerged as a cool and articulate spokesman for her father on recent public appearances.

Those heating with oil hardest hit by crunch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The fuel conservation program will hit hardest at the householder who heats his home with oil.

For buildings heated by natural gas or electricity, lowering the thermostat will be voluntary. For private homes that use oil heat, the federal regulations make it mandatory.

While there are no plans obviously to check the thermostats in individual homes, the penalty for violation is quite severe. The first violation will be forgiven; after the second, the house may get pretty cold if the occupants don't keep the temperature down.

After Dec. 27, when the regulations go into effect, the home fuel tank will get one fillup. The supplier will figure out how much fuel that particular house needs to heat it at a thermostat setting 6 degrees less than was maintained a year ago.

In estimating the fuel needs of the private home, the supplier will use what is known as a "degree-day formula," already widely used in the industry to schedule automatic deliveries.

That formula takes into account the size of a structure, the weather and other factors to schedule deliveries to homes before the heating fuel runs low.

Under the regulations, the only difference will be that the "degree-day formula" will be adjusted to a home temperature of 6 degrees less than was maintained last winter.

When the "degree-day formula" tells the supplier it's time to deliver oil to a particular home, he'll re-fill the tanks. If he finds that more fuel has been used than his degree-day formula tells him was required to heat the home at the lowered thermostat setting, the supplier will send the householder a warning.

The warning notice will indicate that that home may run out of fuel before the end of the winter if the thermostat isn't lowered or other steps taken to save fuel.

The home-owner will not get another chance to change his ways.

The next time the "formula" tells the oil man to make a delivery, he will not fill the tanks to the top but merely supply what the householder is entitled to get on a certified need.

That reduced delivery will be continued to the end of the winter, even though the house may get cold.

On the average, there will be 10 per cent less heating fuel available than last year.

The homeowner can do several things to conserve fuel. He can supplement the heat by using a fireplace, coal or wood stove; he can install more insulation; he can close up sections of the house for the winter.

If a householder thinks he's being unfairly treated by his oil dealer or feels he has a valid argument for using more fuel, he can take his case to a local board which can set in motion orders to change the allotment or provide him with additional supplies from a state reserve.

The regulations make no provision for the homeowner who may have kept his house at a coolish 68 degrees level last year. Presumably he could plead that being forced to lower his thermostat to 62 would be a hardship.

The allocation system will work the same for commercial establishments except that they must lower the building temperature by 10 degrees.

Pub discloses whisky rationing

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Pat Roach, owner of the Bit O'Blarney Pub, has decided to "limit" his customers to 10 gallons at a time in keeping with the spirit of times.

A sign outside the bar reads: "In the interest of conserving energy, we are limiting all whisky purchases to 10 gallons per customer. How's that Dick!"

Goose doesn't need extra-protein diet

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Watergate, our young goose, has acquired a taste for DC's dog food. DC doesn't mind and we're not too cheap to buy dog food for a goose if you say it's all right. We just want to know that it is.—T.R.

Dear T.R.: Dog food is fouled up fodder for a goose because it is much higher in protein than required. This could lead to digestive disturbances. Obviously, other ingredients aren't geared to a goose's metabolic processes, either. While Watergate might actually benefit from some dog food, as a side snack, he'll do better on more conventional fowl fare in keeping with his basically vegetarian-oriented metabolism.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have two sisters both allergic to dogs. I want a dog for Christmas. I was wondering if any dog was better so they won't react too much.—C.D.

Dear C.D.: Ideally, your sisters might, with medical help, overcome this allergy or at least greatly minimize it. Dogs do vary considerably in the amount of allergic reaction they cause.

Frequently, the best breeds in this respect are those who shed the least. These same breeds of dogs generally tend to have less dander (material that accumulates directly on the skin) which is often a greater problem in terms of allergic reaction than the dog hair itself. Then, too, this dander may be minimized by frequent baths with a mild therapeutic shampoo plus good basic nutrition for the dog. Poodles and Kerry blues are examples of breeds desirable from this standpoint.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is there any harm in letting kittens nurse from their mother too long? We started trying to feed these kittens when they were five weeks old. That's two weeks ago and they are still not eating much preferring to nurse their mama. Ginger (that's her) has taken this all in stride.

Dear L.G.: Ginger is going to stride right out of the milk bar business any day now if, indeed, she hasn't already. Neither her patience nor her milk supply could continue to keep pace with that guzzling group indefinitely. Be sure the kits' first solid food is something that really should appeal to them. You might even try two or three different offerings along this line. Use shallow pans with small amounts of food. This particularly applies to something like fresh cow's milk which should be offered unless its acceptance causes diarrhea.

The doctor comments

Increased activity can offset coldness

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a married man, 76 years old, in good health, so the doctor tells me. I have no aches or pains except the small ones us old bags have. Most mornings I say, "Good morning, God." But, there are a few mornings I might say, "Good God, another day!" But, very few.

My trouble is that for the past 20 years I have been feeling cold. Each year it has gotten more so. The last doctor, now retired, checked my blood for thyroid trouble, gave me some tablets, two each day, but they did no good. I dread the winter but financially am not able to go to a warm climate.

I have good eyesight, good hearing, and most of my own teeth, keep my weight at 150 pounds and am 5-5. Don't have any arthritis or anemia. Do you think an endocrinologist can do something for me? Also, can a senior citizen afford it? We are living on social security.

Incidentally, I ride my bike every day to keep in condition.

DEAR READER—I hope I'm doing that well at 76. I don't think I would go to an expensive effort without first seeing my family doctor. I doubt your symptom of feeling cold is indicative of any significant thyroid or gland problems. Some people are more sensitive to the cold than others.

Your daily bike riding suggests to me that you exercise regularly. Physical activity is a good way to warm up. The sensation of being cold really comes from the skin, not the internal body. If you have a lot of warm blood circulating to the skin, you will feel warm.

As people get older they often don't have as many muscle cells and other active cells that commonly generate heat. They actually are colder. You can even measure the difference. You can offset this by increasing your activity. It can be light physical activity about the house.

The other problem is often a decrease in circulation. This is particularly apt to make the feet cold. I think older people in colder climates especially, should consider wearing a pair of warm socks to bed at night. A lot of readers have told me warm socks, a blanket, or other measures to keep the feet and legs warm at night helps to prevent leg cramps.

What you eat also makes a difference. For some complicated reasons proteins generate more body heat than either carbohydrates or fats. In the process of concerting them to energy, they form extra heat calories. A meat eater then is better suited for cold climates. I'm not suggesting that you go on a meat diet, but you might seriously increase your protein intake in the winter months. Eat your protein in the morning and lunch meals to be warm in the day. You won't need the extra warmth at night if you have warm socks and adequate bedding. Lean meat, fish, poultry, fortified skim milk, beans, soybeans and cottage cheese are all good sources of protein.

I think a number of older people feel cold because they are not eating enough of the right foods. People on low calorie diets feel cold and have very cold skin. Thermal underwear will help too. (I mean Long John-thermal underwear.) You may need them with this year's energy crisis.

People are joiners; new chamber booklet proves it

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

POMONA — Let two or three persons gather together and you'll probably end up with a president, vice president and secretary-treasurer.

Forming clubs, organizations, fraternals and associations has long been an American tradition.

And in the Pomona area, residents are no exceptions.

There are groups for mothers with twins—but not triplets. There are Moose, Lions, Elks and Eagles—but no alligators.

You can be a Knight of Columbus or Pythias—but not of the round table.

Women can join a league of voters, legal secretaries, construction workers, or those who gained distinction.

For men, there are sons of Columbus and sons of Norway.

The names of more than 200 clubs and organizations, their officers, and meeting places, have been compiled in a book and published by the Pomona Chamber of Commerce.

The cost is $1.50 each, and copies can be obtained at the chamber office, 100 Pomona Mall West.

Many clubs are formed by members on what they did.

Soldiers, sailors and Marines have returned from wars to organize veterans groups. Their wives and mothers, in turn, have formed auxiliaries and chapters.

From many miles of "riding the rails" has developed a group of retired railroad workers. And the vocation of building missiles has led to the banding of former General Dynamics employes.

Many residents become joiners to pursue their hobbies and other outside interests.

They can band with other artists, photographers, rock hounds and African violet growers. Or they can pursue their acting ambitions through several local theatrical groups.

Those who like a bit more action can try the Chino Gun Fighters.

Interested in politics? Then you have your choice of uniting with the Democrats or Republicans. Or you may want to join the local United Nations Association.

There are two groups formed for "sky pilots." One is for ministers and the second for those who enjoy flying.

Parents aren't forgotten. Neither are the children. Moms and dads can always join the neighborhood PTA. Single parents may join other parents without partners.

The children have the option of becoming Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownies, Pop Warner football players or 4-H members.

Grandparents have the Golden Agers, Retirees Club and the Council on Aging.

Then there are groups for those who enjoy chess and Shakespeare.

Residents can also join others to take off weight, or band together with citizen band radios.

Those who enjoy doing service for the community have a wide selection. They can become Rotarians, Kiwanians, Lions, or Jaycees.

Residents who like a bit of harmony in their lives may try the local concert band, barbershop singers, or the Sweet Adelines.

For those who want to keep in step, there are a number of square-dance groups plus a concert dance theater.

Have a desire to tell a funny story or discuss current events? You may have an audience as member of a Toastmaster or Toastmistress club.

Many clubs are formed to help relieve human suffering. These include the Cancer Society, Federation for the Blind, Crippled Children's Society, Heart Association, Multiple Sclerosis Society, Assistance League, Association for Retarded Children and the Area Health Council.

Reflecting on things past can also be fun-especially when done with others. Two such groups include the Historical Bottle Club and the Historical Society.

But one club to which all residents may belong is simply titled: "Love Thy Neighbor.

POPULATION EXPLOSION

Howard Preston of 2174 Las Vegas Ave. likes big dogs. So when his 3-year-old St. Bernard, Mitzy, gave birth to a 14-pup litter late last week, it was a happy event. Preston plans to sell the purebred pups, eight males and six females, as soon as they are old enough.

City cancels yule tree lane lighting job

POMONA — Traditional lighting of deodar trees along Huntington Boulevard at Christmas time will not take place this year because of the nation's energy crisis.

Acting on a request by Mayor Ray J. Lepire, the City Council voted 4-0 Monday night to "void" the lighting of Christmas Tree Lane as provided for in an agreement approved previously with the Foley Advertising Co.

Lepire is in San Juan, Puerto Rico, for the National League of Cities' annual Congress of Cities.

City Atty. Patrick Sampson said most of the work already had been done before the project was ordered halted.

Sampson said the firm would be paid for the work completed, adding, "I'm sure there will be a rebate of some type" to the city.

Under the agreement, Foley was to be paid $3,888 for installing 200 varied colored lights on each of the 19 trees for display from Dec. 8 to early January. In the past, public subscriptions have been solicited to help pay for the costs.

On other matters dealing with the energy shortage, Councilman Ben Ochoa requested the city staff to look into the possible purchase of compact cars for the city's fleet instead of sedans.

He also asked the staff to study the present practice of allowing some employes to drive city vehicles home, excepting the city administrator, police and fire chiefs.

"It behooves us to really concern ourselves with the energy crisis," said Ochoa.

Man, 50, found dead in home

POMONA — A 50-year-old man was found dead of an apparently self-inflicted bullet wound in his home at 389½ W. Bonita Ave. Monday night, police reported.

The body of Theron Wayne Curren was found on a bed. A rifle, a 7.7 mm. Japanese war souvenir, was found nearby. There were no notes.

The victim's body was found by James M. Brown, who lives in the other half of the duplex. Curren had failed to show up for work as a Cal Poly maintenance man and later with his bowling team.

Police were told the victim may have been despondent over a recent divorce. The body was taken to Pollock Mortuary.

Pomona man, 24, discovered dead in his bathroom

POMONA — A 24-year-old Pomona man died Monday night, apparently the result of a narcotics overdose, police reported.

The victim, Michael Augustine Martinez, collapsed in the bathroom of his home at 1148 E. 7th St. His mother, Otella Martinez, 48, told police that when she couldn't get an answer to her knocks, the doorknob was removed and her son was found lying on the bathroom floor.

External heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation were attempted but Martinez was pronounced dead on arrival at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Police said several recent puncture wounds were found on Martinez' arm.

The coroner's office planned an autopsy to determine the cause of death.

Suspension of massage technician permits lifted temporarily by city

POMONA — Suspension of 25 massage technicians' permits was temporarily lifted by the City Council Monday night pending a public hearing Dec. 17 on the qualifications of a school of massage to issue diplomas.

The permits had been suspended by City Clerk Larry Thomas after City Atty. Patrick said he learned that the school of massage, known as California Federation of Myomassethics, at 861 N. Gordon St., apparently was not qualified to grant diplomas for massage.

A city ordinance provides that a massage technician permit may be granted only if the masseuse has received a diploma from a "recognized school," said Sampson.

Sampson said a recognized school meant one approved by the state.

But he said the city had been informed in a letter from Robert M. Redfield, supervising field representative for the Bureau of School Approvals, state Department of Education, that a review of state records turned up no information on the school.

"The point is that the ladies did not know this wasn't an accredited school," remarked acting Mayor R. T. French. "Personally, I think it would be unfair to suspend their licenses at this time."

In a letter to Lloyd C. Allen, director of the school, Sampson said that until the school could provide documentary evidence on its ability to grant diplomas and on its state recognition, "I am instructing the city clerk not to issue any massage permits based on your 'diplomas' and furthermore, I am instructing the city clerk to suspend any massage permits heretofore granted based upon your apparent misrepresentation."

Allen attended the meeting and indicated he expected the matter would be cleared up shortly.

Also in attendance were a number of massage technicians and an operator of a massage place who pleaded with the council not to deprive women of the means of earning their livelihood in the interim period before the hearing.

The operator said he had "not had one bust" and that a masseuse should not have her permit suspended unless she had been arrested for prostitution or committed some other "immoral act."

The operator said he had received no city complaints about his place of business on East Mission Boulevard, adding that respectable massage places should not be penalized because of the opinion some people held of massage parlors in general.

French noted that the lifting of the suspensions was only until the matter was cleared up at the hearing when the action to be taken by the council will depend on the evidence presented.

"As a councilman, I'm not too impressed with a school that's, in effect, deceiving the students," said Councilman Charles W. Bader.

The vote to lift the suspensions pending the hearing was 4-0.

Pomona police win award for driving safety

POMONA — Pomona police officers have won an award for safe driving in a division which included much larger police departments.

The award is made by the Los Angeles chapter of the National Safety Council each year. The division won by the local department is for police agencies whose officers drive in excess of 60,000 miles per month.

The average rate of accidents per million miles driven in that division was 17.3. Pomona officers winning statistic was 12.6 accidents per million miles.

The department recently was given a National Safety Council certificate honoring its officers for winning the award.

2 drivers hurt slightly in crash on Valley

POMONA — Two drivers were injured slightly and 90 feet of chain link fence damaged in a traffic collision Monday afternoon at Valley Boulevard and Temple Street.

Police reported the accident occurred when Laurie L. Carl, 17, of 23963 Palomino Dr., Diamond Bar turned left in front of Willie S. Aragon, 51, of 4938 Bandera St., Montclair. After the collision, Aragon's pickup truck spun across Valley Boulevard and into fence belonging to Cal Poly.

Both drivers told police they would see doctors later for treatment of cuts and bruises.

Beauty queens join Pomona parade lineup

POMONA — Two beauty queens will ride in the 21st annual Pomona Christmas parade on Saturday.

They are Cathy Grothe of Pomona, the 1973 Los Angeles County Fair queen, and Sue Henderson, Miss Mt. Baldy.

Miss Grothe is employed at Buffums' in Pomona. She is a senior at Cal Poly working towards a teaching credential. She is vice president of the Sigma Phi Delta Sorority.

Miss Henderson recently was selected queen of the Mt. Baldy Chapter of the California Credit Union League. She lives in Highland and is employed as a distributor for a San Bernardino publisher.

Parade chairman Sam Russo said there will be more than 100 units in the parade, built around the theme "The Magic of Christmas," set to start at 6 p.m. on Holt Avenue.

It will proceed east on Holt from Hamilton Boulevard to Palomares Street and disband.

Santa Claus will be in the parade. He will be followed by a U.S. Postal Service truck. Attendants will gather letters from children along the parade route they wish to have mailed to Santa.

Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire and all councilmen, Adrian Wright, Ben Ochoa, Charles Bader and Richard French, will ride in the parade. French will be accompanied by his wife and their five children.

POMONA — Pictures told the story and ended a search for Kurt Wagner, 1741 Fleming St.

A humane officer said Wagner had been looking for his pet cat for two weeks until he saw photographs with accompanying caption published in this newspaper Saturday telling of a cat's rescue after reportedly being up a tree for five days.

"Well, the owner of the cat read the story and saw the photos and came to our shelter to see the cat. He was most happy to be reunited with his pet," said Bruce Richards, executive director of the Humane Society of Pomona Valley.

Richards said the shelter received many calls from persons who wanted to adopt the cat, "Augusta."

City helicopter damaged

POMONA — One of Pomona Police Department's two helicopters was damaged Friday afternoon during a practice emergency landing maneuver. No one was injured.

Chief Pilot Ernest Newman reported that he and Pilot Officer Jim Newsom were executing an auto-rotation landing, during which the helicopter's engine is off, when the accident occurred.

The helicopter nosed over when it touched down, with the main rotor blades hitting the ground. Besides the rotor blades, the helicopter's tail section and other parts were damaged. No dollar estimate of the damage was immediately available.

The helicopter accident was the first in over 8,900 hours of use by the police since 1969.

Opinion

Doing more with less

In considerable measure, President Nixon seems to be going at the energy crisis rather like a man beating a donkey to get him to move.

A serious oil deficit can be handled in two ways. One is to cut back strongly on distribution, risk a major recession and heavy unemployment. The other: open doors to a billion or so in capital investment to improve the efficiency with which we use fuel — thus saving oil and spurring economic growth simultaneously.

If the President attempts to rely solely on "distributing the shortages fairly" the economic consequences can be ferocious — 20 to 35 per cent unemployment in vulnerable regions. In some industries, an eight per cent cut in fuel can mean a 20 per cent layoff because of the scarcity of one essential component or material.

Proven methods of increasing the efficiency of fuel and of utilizing waste energy resources are available. These known techniques would save more in operating costs than the initial investment, usually within three years. Many can be installed and operating within three to twelve months. Each saving by itself would be small; but in total these bits and pieces could add up to more than half of the energy shortage within a year if sufficient inducements were offered.

The stimulus of a billion or so dollars invested in equipment for improved combustion controls, added insulation and other means of increasing fuel efficiency, better means for reclaiming oil now thrown away, using low quality gas now burned off as waste and for flattening the peaks of power use would give industry a new spark in 1974 of sufficient strength to increase, rather than decrease employment and to bolster industrial production.

Yet with all this, Mr. Nixon seems bent on belt tightening with little thought to increasing efficiency.

Herewith a sample of possible efficiencies:

About 15 per cent of the fuel used by West Germany in steel making comes from waste-by-product carbon monocide. In the U.S. that gas is burned off as waste.

Today approximately 60 per cent of used lubricating oil is thrown away. Reclaiming that oil could save the equivalent of 50,000 barrels of petroleum a day.

The equivalent of almost 400,000 barrels of petroleum a day could be saved by a massive home-loan program aimed at increasing the insulation in homes, especially in attics, installing storm windows and thermostats with timers which could be set to automatically turn down the heat drastically when not being used. The cost to the householder would be made up by the decrease in fuel bills.

Another 250,000 to 300,000 barrels a day in petroleum equivalent could be saved in office buildings.

Upwards of 200,000 barrels of petroleum or its energy equivalent could be saved in industry by improved combustion and process controls, the wider use of insulation in industrial furnaces and other heat saving devices. Again, savings would be greater than the costs.

These industrial savings of scarce fuel would come in bits and pieces. In that part of the steel industry serving auto makers, for example, the equivalent of 30,000 barrels a day could be saved by insulation to prevent the steel transporting system from drawing out the heat during processing, saving part of the fuel now used in reheating operations.

In the cement industry, the installations of suspension preheaters would result in major fuel savings. These devices were developed in the 1950s and 400 are now being used worldwide; but only about a dozen are in operation in the U.S.

The bodies for supplying the needed funds for this program are available in the plethora of alphabetical agencies which have grown up in Washington these past few decades. What's needed now is to establish priorities and make the funds available. There is no need for this to be a charity program or boondoggle. The investments mentioned would, as noted above, be scheduled to bring more in savings than they would cost.

Expense-account living, mob style

Mobsters don't become nice guys just because they may turn legit.

Organized crime in the United States has found it extremely lucrative to infiltrate legitimate businesses, claims Herbert Edelhertz of the Battelle Human Affairs Research Center in Seattle. But once into business, it continues to operate in the same old way.

"Syndicate member don't buy airline tickets the way you or I do," he says. "They pay discounted prices on tickets stolen from the airlines.

"A mob figure will pay for a 'business lunch' with a credit card, usually a different one every week, stolen from another part of the country."

Motels controlled by the mob, the crime experts adds, often furnish rooms with stolen television sets.

This is not even to mention those offers to their rivals or competitors that can't be refused.

Salmon for Congressman Sikes

WASHINGTON — A rueful Rep. Robert Sikes, D-Fla., has learned that shipping frozen fish by military mail can cause complications. He almost lost a package of salmon in the Air Force transportation system.

Sikes has a weakness for fresh Alaskan salmon. He acquired a few fish while he was in Alaska recently, froze them for shipping and put them aboard a military plane bound for Andrews Air Force base, outside Washington.

Inadvertently, Sikes' salmon got mixed up with the armed forces courier mail and wound up at Ft. Meade, Md. An Army lieutenant plunged his hand into the mailbag and came up with the cold fish.

Sourly, the naive young officer called the congressman's office and informed the staff of the whereabouts of Sikes' fish. If the congressman wanted them, said the lieutenant, he could come and get them.

Sikes, it turned out, wanted front door delivery. A Sikes aide called the military liaison office on Capitol Hill and the young lieutenant hastened to Washington to deliver the frozen fish in person. He apologized profusely, say our sources, for his impertinence.

FOOTNOTE: Sikes acknowledged that he had visited Alaska but said the fish were sent to him by "a friend." He knew nothing about them, he said, until he got the call from the "overbearing officer." The salmon, he added, "were very good."

POLITICAL SQUEEZE: Two of President Nixon's political operators, Murray Chotiner and Harry Dent, helped run up a contractor's claim against the Veterans Administration from a $1 million offer to a $10.3 million settlement.

The whopping settlement was paid to the Donovan Construction Co., a St. Paul firm, for cost overruns on an $18 million hospital construction project at Northport, Long Island.

The VA first offered to settle the claim for $1 million. This was rejected by the contractor, John Donovan, who hired Chotiner to apply political pressure. Chotiner worked the settlement up to $9 million.

Then Donovan, operating through former White House aide Peter Millspaugh, brought in Dent. For a $2,500 fee, Dent pressed for outside arbitration, which the VA turned down. Instead, veterans administrator Donald Johnson accepted an arbitrary $10.3 million settlement.

"No Audit': GAO

Now the General Accounting Office has charged that the $10.3 million was paid without validating the contractor's claim. "No audit by a government agency of the contractor's claim was performed prior to the execution of the settlement agreement," contended the GAO.

In a private, four-page letter to Johnson, the GAO also made these blistering allegations:

— Many of the costs claimed by Donovan, said the GAO, were "of dubious allowability."

— The Justice Department "is currently investigating allegations," the GAO reported, "that the contractor violated the False Claims Act" in connection with the contract.

Conditions unmet

— GAO investigators questioned "the total cost method" used by the VA in reaching the settlement. This method shouldn't have been used, it was asserted, without certain prerequisites. "We have found no evidence that any of these conditions were met in this case," declared the auditing agency.

— Within the VA, officials differed widely over the size of the settlement. "Knowledgeable individuals," according to the GAO, supported settlement figures "less than half of that reached."

— The contractor made six appeals that were denied by the Contract Appeals Board, another 13 claims that were dismissed with prejudice. Yet the GAO charged: "It is our understanding that these claims are now included in the settlement amount."

The intervention of Chotiner and Dent, nevertheless, magically overcame all these derogatory facts. Sources close to the GAO investigation point out that Johnson's job has been hanging in balance and, therefore, that the political clout of Chotiner and Dent could have influenced Johnson's decision.

'Never discussed it'

Johnson admitted that Chotiner had dropped by and had mentioned Donovan was his client. But Johnson claimed they never discussed the settlement. Chotiner told us he had "always followed the practice never to discuss my clients' affairs."

Dent said he had "talked to Don Johnson and one or two of his assistants a couple of times." This was disputed by Johnson, who insisted: "He's never contacted me." The administrator admitted only that he was "certainly aware" of Dent's role on behalf of the Donovan firm. In any event, Johnson denied playing a major part in the settlement.

FOOTNOTE: The GAO probe of the $10.3 million deal was requested in late August by hardworking Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif. He has called for public hearings on the matter and a freeze on funding the contractor's claim. Senator William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Veterans Appropriations Subcommittee, told us through a spokesman that he "would oppose appropriations of these funds until GAO's questions have been completely resolved."

PAUL HARVEY

U.S. trying for second place

The United States is in a downhill race for second place. Its people are letting it down. The United States used to make 76 per cent of all the world's automobiles; now we make 33 per cent. Once we produced 47 per cent of all the world's steel; now 19 per cent.

In the Fifties we built most of the merchant ships in the world; in the Seventies we're building only 2 per cent of them. And where we were first as a builder of machine tools, now we are third. The sewing machine was "All-American" for generations. Today, only one company makes them in our country.

Some 40 per cent of all Americans wear shoes made outside America. Why?

Why are other nations now outdistancing ours in the manufacture of almost everything? Because their workers will work longer for less.

No, we can't blame Washington for this. Labor leader George Meany can't blame President Nixon for this. Our nation is a lesser competitor in the world marketplace because American workers have been running scared from work.

We demand ever-increasing wages, but we're content to turn out shoddy merchandise. Made-in-America stuff costs exorbitant prices and falls apart. So disgusted customers shop elsewhere.

And the "customer service" that Americans used to be so good at — falters. Today the second most frequent complaint received by the Better Business Bureau is about "unsatisfactory service"; frequently it's plain old-fashioned rudeness.

Detroit's carmakers have had to establish special telephone lines to deal with the avalanche of customer complaints.

Carmakers struck less last year than any year in nine, but any given day at Chrysler one-in-ten workers just "doesn't bother to show up."

And while American labor leaders justify their own jobs with increasing demands for higher wages, shorter workweeks, earlier retirement, more fringe benefits, the harder workers in Japan are about to buy us out — with our own worth-less dollars!

Jim Windle, professor of industrial supervision at Purdue, says our economy is being snafued by goldbrickers, "by a 24-karat I-don't give-a-damn syndrome sweeping the nation.

"New products fall apart like cheap junk; waiters act like they're doing you a favor by waiting on you; you wait hours in a physician's office while he plays golf; airlines misdirect your luggage; dry cleaners send your things back still stained — or lose them . . ."

Do you realize that the only hope on the horizon for America's economic survival is that the Japanese and Germans, hurrying, as we did, will get rich, as we did, and get lazy — as we did?

Logical gas rationing

From all accounts, the so-called energy crisis is now fact and certainly a matter of real concern. The obvious winners in the Middle East War are the Arabs and the Russians. They have the oil and we have the consequences of a foreign policy that has been woefully short-sighted. Evidently our diplomats lack the finesse of their horse-trading forefathers. The credibility gap is now wider than ever and with all the double-talk going around in Washington, we're confused and would like to know what the bureaucrats are going to do next. There is little doubt in my mind that gas rationing is certain to come.

Raising the price of gas; laying down a heavy tax; closing down independently owned stations; and other similar solutions will only serve to place the most hardship on the people who can least afford it. And that's not fair. I believe that energy belongs to all of us and should be shared as equally as air and water. So, if we are to survive in a new age of shortages and increasing demands on limited resources, let's divide the burden in an equitable manner. Give everyone a fair share at a price they can afford to pay.

I don't think gas rationing has to be complicated. If it must happen, let it begin with a workable method based on a logical plan. A relatively simple solution would be to issue gasoline allocation cards that would be used in the same way we use credit cards. We have the computer technology and experience and wouldn't have to go through the ration stamp and black-market mess we had in World War II. Every licensed driver would receive a quarterly quota of gas based on individual need and available supply. This quota would be put in a central computer maintained by the Internal Revenue Service. Every gas purchase would be transacted by the card, and the record would be stored in a central data bank. If a person exceeded his quota, he would receive a citation and be fined.

If this plan is adopted, of course many details will have to be ironed out before it can be implemented. But any good rationing system will require hard work. And whatever method we use will require a lot of readjusting in our attitudes and priorities. We'll have to tighten our belts and realign our national purpose to the most important needs of our society. If we could make it to the moon in a decade, surely the goal of achieving alternate sources of energy — while we make do with what we have — is not beyond our reach. — Howard Price, Pomona.

Gossip for today

So you think that because of the country's current trials and tribulations, this year's celebrating of Thanksgiving was a hollow mockery? If so you are certainly overlooking some very important blessings we still enjoy. It stands to reason that we should all be thankful because, even though the lawmakers have cut down our driving speed and threatened to ration gasoline, it looks as though there is still going to be a Ford in our future.

INSIDE REPORT

Greek dictator may reverse homeporting

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The chilling bankruptcy of Nixon administration policy toward Greece, dramatized in the overthrow of the Papadopoulos dictatorship so pampered by the U.S., has now created an even more horrendous prospect: the threat of a Qaddafi-style, super-nationalistic regime controlling NATO's strategic eastern anchor.

For the first time since Col. George Papadopoulos overthrew the legal, parliamentary government in Athens nearly seven years ago in a military coup d'etat, American policymakers are showing alarm (though still not stating it publicly).

The reason: full-blown American support for the now-deposed Papadopolous dictatorship may have created a Frankenstein monster in the form of growing anti-Americanism which, under the new nationalistic regime of strongman Lt. Col. Dimitrius Ioannidis, could radically transform the volatile Eastern Mediterranean.

That alarm does not seem unjustified. Thus, the highly controversial homeporting scheme of the U.S. Navy, now half completed, may die a-borning. Always resented by housing-short Greek civilians (and questioned by State Department diplomats), homeporting has been completed for some 3,000 sailors and their dependents. But twice that many sailors and dependents attached to an aircraft carrier are still to come.

May play to anti-Americanism

If new strongman Ioannidis, head of the military police and the only incorruptible figure to emerge from the seven Papadopoulos years, does become a Qaddafi-style xenophobe, he may play to this anti-Americanism and reverse homeporting.

That would complete the wreck of the Nixon policy toward the old Papadopoulos dictatorship. The President always treated it as militarily essential to U. S. interests in the Eastern Mediterranean and the Middle East, no matter how much it poisoned the Greek people themselves, hitherto so strongly pro-American.

Dangerous limitations on the administrations's policy have long been apparent. In the 1970 Jordanian crisis, American spy planes were forced to use the island of Cyprus instead of Greek airfields to keep a camera on the strategic war zone. Likewise, Greece was barred to the U.S. airlift during the recent massive resupply of Israel in the Yom Kippur war.

Yet, it has now been established that the Soviet airlift to supply the Arabs during those same critical days overflew Greek territory with impunity. The U.S. government has made no fuss about this, and probably won't. Its effect, however, is to cast grave doubt on the administration's claim that support of the dictatorship would guarantee military dividends.

That claim, weakened during the Papadopoulos era anyway, now faces a graver threat from the more nationalistic Ioannaidis. The chief victor could be the Soviet Union, with its large Mediterranean fleet and its own secure naval docks in Syria and Egypt.

Nixon's cozy relationship

But, when the President was challenged by the Democrats during the presidential campaign last year on his cozy relationship with the Papadopoulos regime, his reply, either incredibly naive or intentionally demagogic, was that "without aid to Greece . . . you have no viable policy to save Israel."

There was no sign, moreover, of any White House recanting as a result of the pro-Arab posture of the Papadopoulos regime when the Oct. 6 Middle East war broke out. To the contrary, on Nov. 4 Alexander Panagoulis, a hero to Greek youth for his assassination attempt against Papadopoulos shortly after the 1967 coup d'etat, was denied a visa to visit the U.S.

The grounds: moral turpitude (resulting from the aborted attempt on the dictator's life). The State Department could easily have asked the Justice Department to waive that prohibition in the case of Panagoulis, thereby shrewdly revealing sympathy for the rising hostility inside Greece against the colonels. Instead, Panagoulis was and still is barred.

A predictable reaction to this came from exiled Greek authority Elias Demetracopoulos, who wrote congressional leaders that treating Panagoulis "as if he were a common criminal" further strengthens anti-Americanism in Greece.

The political course of Ioannidis, who now has taken personal charge of press censorship and has been holding cabinet meetings in his own office, is uncertain. But his accession raises the prospect of either Qaddafi-style super-nationalism or further coups, aborted coups, insurrections and instability, none of it helpful to the U.S.

Such a prescription, as all our reporting trips to Greece the past six years have warned, was immediately evident following the 1967 Papadopoulos coup. Whether President Nixon now will attempt a policy more aloof and detached than his ardent pro-Papadopoulos courtship will greatly influence the future U.S. relationship with the Greek nation.

After two groups disagree

Temporary restroom unit planned for Suzanne Park

WALNUT — Differences over location of a combined restroom-concessions facility in Suzanne Park have raised a tempest in a bathroom.

Caught between staff advice and conflicting opinions of the Walnut Valley Riders and Bobby Soxers girls' softball groups, the Parks and Recreation Commission recently decided to experiment with a temporary facility.

But City Council members nixed that plan last week, protesting the plan was not in harmony with previous arrangements and could raise the cost of the facility by a large amount.

None of the argument was expected when Administrative Asst. Terry James stood before the council to report on progress of improvement at the park. Two softball diamonds are under construction near a pair of horse rings at the park's north end, to be followed by a pair of combined "snack shack" and restroom units, one near baseball diamonds used by the Little League, the other in the area of the softball diamonds.

During budget sessions last spring, the council set aside $25,000 to finance the facilities. At that time, the council was promised public support in building the two facilities at the same time, so costs could be kept low.

However, plans for the softball diamonds were changed, making location of the snack shack in that area questionable. Staff members argued the snack shacks should be located between the diamonds to serve better the whole north end of the park.

Some of the Riders argued the facility should be placed between the diamonds and the horse rings, said a city spokesman, while Bobby Soxers "just wanted to get the whole thing over with."

Ultimately, the commission decided to try putting a temporary facility inbetween the diamonds and continue using the old restrooms in the area. James said the commission thought this solution would provide a year-long test.

However, councilmen said that without the combined volunteer aid of the two baseball clubs to build both snack shacks, neither would draw sufficient help at construction time. And constructing the two separately would require twice the budget appropriation, noted Councilman Robert Lovemark.

Further, the council felt the projects should be started soon enough to beat the beginning of Little League or softball seasons. "Once the season is under way," remarked Lovemark, "we'll lose all our help."

The council sent a request to the parks panel to review the issue again and make a final decision.

Santa Claus coming to plaza on Saturday

DIAMOND BAR — Santa Claus will arrive Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Diamond Bar Plaza Shopping Center.

He will visit with children from 2 to 6 p.m.

Santa is being brought to town by the Diamond Bar Plaza Merchants Association, according to association president Don Stokes.

He will return to the plaza on Dec. 15 and 22 between noon and 6 p.m. He will distribute treats to all children who visit him.

Parents wishing to snap pictures of their children with Santa are invited to bring their cameras.

Stokes urged all those interested in participating in the swap meet Saturday and Sunday at the Diamond Bar Plaza Shopping Center to contact him.

Parking lot spaces may be reserved for the meet with the payment of $1 to Stokes. The event is being sponsored by the merchants association and Cub Scout Pack 777. Proceeds will benefit the pack.

Pack leaders and scouts will camp out overnight to protect merchandise displayed at the meet, Stokes said.

The Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA asks all Diamond Bar residents to save newspapers and deliver them to the Y office at 400 Brea Canyon Road. Twine will be provided to tie the paper in 12- to 18-inch stacks.

Proceeds from the paper drive will support Y youth programs.

Supervisors okay agreement for interim on-ramp

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — The Board of Supervisors has approved an agreement for construction of an interim on-ramp to the Pomona Freeway as part of a street improvement contract already awarded D & W Paving, Inc.

Supervisors' Chairman Peter Schabarum said the initial $776,748 contract is for work being done on Colima Road from Azusa Avenue to Larkvane Road, and on Azusa Avenue from the Pomona Freeway to Colima Road.

City of Industry requested the interim on-ramp. Plans for this were not complete when the contract was awarded in September.

The supplemental agreement provides the contractor an additional $26,500 to build the on-ramp for traffic northbound on Azusa Avenue entering the eastbound Pomona Freeway.

It will improve access for motorists until the bridge widening and ultimate ramp are built by the state late in 1974.

Schabarum said Industry will reimburse the county for the cost of the additional work.

Stop signs still coming but at new intersection

WALNUT — The city staff is rewriting a proposed ordinance ordering a set of stop signs placed on Vejar Road at Radcliff Drive after Mayor Richard Laughter suggested the signs be located at Vejar's intersection with Barbados Drive.

In council discussions of the proposal, brought by a petition of homeowners in the area protesting high traffic speeds, it had been mentioned that Radcliff makes a three-way intersection at an angle to Vejar that could cause problems when a stop sign was installed.

Laughter, in suggesting during last week's council meeting the matter be held off, pointed out that Barbados offers a more easily controlled four-way intersection.

Engineering reports on the proposal had recommended against the stop signs, also opposed by Councilman William Wentworth. However, the draft resolution for signs at Vejar and Radcliff read, "In the interest of traffic safety, and in accordance with sound traffic engineering principles . . . ." The format is standard for all such resolutions.

Walnut drama students offer a period comedy

WALNUT — Voltaire, one of the 18th century's most prolific writers, was a hypochondriac who for all his 84 years thought his next breath would be his last.

Students at Walnut High School will offer an off-Broadway musical comedy about such a man on Thursday and Saturday. "Show Me Where the Good Times Are," which includes scenes fashioned from the work of Voltaire's contemporary, Moliere, goes on stage in the school's multipurpose room at 8 each night.

In the period comedy, set in 1910, a rich hypochondriac married to a gold-digger waiting for him to die is urging his daughter to marry a doctor so he can get free medical treatment. The daughter, however, yearns for an actor-apprentice. Ultimately a ham actor appears to impersonate a doctor, with the daughter's desired along disguised as a famous Viennese doctor.

The plot gets a twist when the old man plays dead to see who really loves him. And his extended, pretended illness makes him such an authority on pills and potions that he receives an honorary diploma in medical Latin.

Rick Barton is cast in the role of Aaron, the hypochondriac; April Grimwood, in the part of Bella, the wife; daughter Annette is played by Jenny Hillseth; mooning actor Maurice is portrayed by Mike Hamilton.

Other principals in the production are Hank Johnson, a teacher at Walnut High, Beverly Brown and Rick Bailey.

Drama instructor Jack Betts is directing the show, with student Kathy Cardwell as producer. Executive producers of the show are the students in the school's Thespian Troupe 2585. Kim Watson is chorus company manager.

"Show Me Where the Good Times Are" was written by Lee Thuna with music by Kenneth Jacobson and lyrics by Rhoda Roberts. It first opened March 5, 1970, at the Edison Theater in New York City.

Tickets for the play are available at a discount of 25 cents if purchased early. Prices at the door are $2 for adults, $1.50 for students with ASB cards, and $1 for children under 12.

GIVING DIRECTIONS

Barbara Sprenger, music director for Walnut High School's production "Show Me Where the Good Times Are," makes notes on her score during rehearsal conference with Jack Betts, director of the play. It runs Thursday and Saturday at the school.

Go-carts are out of gas in Montclair

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — The City Council Monday night denied an appeal for a conditional use permit by a developer seeking to build a go-cart track on the south side of Moreno street west of Benson Avenue.

In taking the action, the council characterized the planned development as not essential or desirable to the public welfare and detrimental to the surrounding area.

The permit had previously been denied by the City Planning Commission. Appealing the commission denial was Miiler and Sons Real Estate.

One of the controversial points of the proposed go-cart facility was its location directly across the street from a mobile home park.

Florence Ford, manager of the Montclair Villa Mobile Home Park, presented a petition signed by 180 residents of the park opposed to the development. In the petition they cited noise, traffic and potential vandalism as the major reasons for their objections to the project.

The entire area, including the mobile home park, are zoned for commercial use. Both the proponents and opponents of the go-cart track told the council that Moreno Street, which has become a major artery between Montclair Plaza and Upland and Ontario to the east, is not wide enough to handle the traffic flow. Although the city plans to widen the street, such projects are usually undertaken in connection with real estate development.

Many cities are already having headaches because they have allowed development for development's sake, said councilman Tom McClure, suggesting that a "proper developer" be found.

The council denied the appeal unanimously.

In other action, the council:

— Gave first reading to an ordinance that will require garages for all future R3 (multiple family dwelling) zone projects. Under the ordinance, 75 per cent of a project's parking would have full garages, including doors, while 25 per cent of the parking would have carports.

— Gave second reading to an ordinance amending the cities sanitary sewer regulations. Water softeners will be required to be removed, under the ordinance, within one year.

— Passed a resolution in opposition to the environmental Protection Agency's control plan for the Los Angeles air basin. The notorious plan was announced several months ago after deliberations in Sacramento. In the council's resolution, public hearings in Southern California were asked.

— Approved a Planning Commission recommendation that any development of property on the southeast corner of Moreno Street and Monte Vista Avenue be commercial in nature and compatible to the regional shopping center.

Office building loses top floor in council vote

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND — Residents of Golden Rain Street scored a victory Monday night by lopping off one story of a four-story professional office building north of their homes.

They also became instant television stars in an historic first broadcast of a West End city council meeting by Theta Cable Television of Ontario.

Following a lengthy public hearing on a conditional use permit and a zoning variance on the controversial proposal, the City Council voted 3-2 to deny a permit for the building and referred the variance request back to the Planning Commission for further study.

Nearly a dozen residents of the area, south of Mulberry Avenue and Foothill Boulevard, attended the meeting as their representatives argued against the development of the building.

Opposition arguments included loss of view, loss of privacy, poor television reception, decrease of property values, earthquake danger, fire hazard, increase of traffic and pollution in the area and poor drainage facilities on the 3.1-acre site.

Residents also contended that the developer, Marie E. Tobin, had not adequately justified the need for a fourth story on the building. They said, Tobin could make just as substantial a profit by developing a three-story building which would be permitted under the existing commercial-professional zoning without the need of a conditional use permit.

Residents also objected to the builder's request for a reduction in the number of parking spaces required by the city. The city required 183 spaces for the building, but developers had requested a variance for only 165. The variance had been denied by the Planning Commission and was being brought up to the council on appeal.

Following testimony from residents and from Herbert Kaiser, Los Angeles architect of the building, councilmen expressed support for many of the opposition arguments.

Councilman Harold Bailin, while agreeing that a four-story building made sense on the location, thought the parking layout for the building was "totally unrealistic" with too few spaces allotted for employes of the bank, engineer's, legal and architectural offices planned for the project.

Councilman George Gibson in moving to deny the permit request said the idea of the project was good, but the extra story was not justified.

Councilman John E. McCarthy and Mayor Abner Haideman also agreed that the applicant was overbuilding on the site and that the parking situation was inadequate.

Councilman A. M. Hawkins agreed with Councilman Bailin and joined him in casting the two "no" votes against denying the permit.

Since residents of the area were not opposed to a three-story building, Kaiser indicated that the developers would be willing to discuss redesigning the project with the Planning Commission.

Despite the novelty of the bright lights and TV camera, the council quickly adjusted to the broadcast situation without an undue amount of stage fright.

The broadcast went smoothly and the television company will present alternate meetings of the Upland and Montclair councils and the Ontario councils on a regular basis to its 5,000 subscribers in the West End.

Violinist to inaugurate new Scripps auditorium

CLAREMONT — Japanese violinist Yukiko Kamei, a Scripps College graduate and former pupil of Jascha Heifetz, will inaugurate the auditorium of Clark Humanities Center as a concert hall with a recital there Dec. 8.

She will play Beethoven's Sonata No. 8 in G Major, Bach's Partita No. 1 in B Minor, "Sonatina" by Scripps composer-in-residence Gail Kubik, and Schubert's "Fantasie," Opus 159. Doris Stevenson will accompany her on the piano.

Miss Kamei began studying the violin at the age of 7 with Takiko Yoshimura in Tokyo. She entered Scripps College on a scholarship in 1967 and two months later was studying with Heifetz.

After her professional debut with a symphony orchestra in Tokyo, Miss Kamei has appeared with numerous leading orchestras in the United States and the Orient. She has done music for television and movies and performed in clubs and with concert groups. She has played with Heifetz, Gregor Piatigorsky, the Armenian Symphony and the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra under Neville Mariner. She has also appeared at the Sitka Summer Music Festival in Alaska, the Claremont Music Festival, the University of Oregon, and with the Brandenburg Players at UCLA.

One of the highlights of her brief career was playing as soloist at the dedication of Japan House, a cultural center near U.N. headquarters in New York City. She was also soloist in Leonard Bernstein's "Mass" at the Los Angeles Music Center.

Claremont schools get pay raises

CLAREMONT — "We couldn't ask for a better Christmas present," was the comment Monday night of Sal Ayala representing the classified employes group as the Claremont Unified School District board unanimously granted pay raises to classified employes, classified supervisors, teachers, certificated supportive services, and administrators.

Superintendent R. S. Kirkendall explained that the new salary schedules, effective Jan. 1, 1974, would place each group sixth among the 13 East San Gabriel Valley school districts.

He further explained that the school board has adopted its salary schedules for the 1973-74 school year earlier than most districts and that "we had intended to rank at least at the median for each schedule."

A study of the adopted schedules for the 13 districts later revealed that Claremont was lower than expected.

Kirkendall estimated that the cost of the raises through June 30, 1974 would be about $91,000.

Sue Peterson, chairman of the Certificated Employe Council, (teachers) said that she was thankful for the raises, but disappointed that they are not retroactive.

To Kirkendall's recommendation that the board "commit to maintaining the lowest possible pupil-teacher ratio," Mrs. Peterson responded that "it is a needed recognition of our stand that we want to keep to the lowest ratio."

As to the teachers, Claremont's beginning salary of $7,900 and maximum salary of $15,800 ranked last of the 13 school districts, but the new beginning salary of $8,141 and maximum salary of $16,282 places the district teachers sixth.

Classified employes were given a three per cent raise, with the beginning monthly salary being raised from $341 to $352.

Word juggernaut has holy background

PURI, India (UPI) — The word juggernaut, meaning an inexorable force that crushes everything in its path, derives from a holy wheeled vehicle on which ancient statues of Hindu gods ride in procession each summer.

According to tradition, enthusiastic worshippers used to commit suicide by throwing themselves beneath the wheels of the heavy car.

Chaffey board OKs cash to build house

ONTARIO — The Chaffey school board Monday night authorized district funds totalling $10,000 be used to start a student project constructing a house.

Tentatively scheduled to begin next fall and be completed in May 1975, the house will be built by students of the Chaffey High School building construction class. It will be a single-level dwelling and have three bedrooms.

Students will work three-hours a day under the tutelage of the school's vocational education instructors, and civilian advisors who are skilled in the construction trade.

The school district will absorb the entire cost of the project, which is estimated to cost between $22,000-$25,000. This includes purchasing materials ($10-$12 a foot); land (between $6,000-$8,000); and equipment ($2,000).

The money set aside at Monday's meeting will be used to purchase a single piece of property and the necessary equipment. It will be taken out of the district's undistributed reserve funds.

The remaining balance will be included in next year's budget.

Students in the class are presently fabricating a two-story addition in Ontario, and it is expected to be completed early next spring.

The construction of a house will be the biggest undertaking by the class yet, but instructors feel that it will provide valuable learning experiences since it will involve students from the business, architectural, and homemaking departments as well as the industrial arts department.

Only 15 students will be involved in the actual on-site construction, and they will be chosen from the machine woodworking classes.

In other business, the board reduced the fee for the adult education driver improvement classes from $10 to $5. The board approved the change because the district administration claimed the program was suffering due to lower fees charged in adjacent districts.

Safety first for Dolphins

MIAMI (UPI) — "We were just having a good time playing football," said Dick Anderson with a grin that outshone his glistening premature bald head.

What the Miami Dolphins' strong safety called having a good time, his coach called "fantastic."

"Anderson's performance was the best I've ever seen by a defensive back," said Miami Head Coach Don Shula, who used to be a defensive back himself.

The six-year veteran from Colorado sparked a Miami team that had nothing to lose in a 30-26 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers, fighting to stay on top of the American Conference Central Division. It was the Steelers' third straight loss and now they share the Central lead with Cleveland and Cincinnati.

Anderson collected four of Miami's six pass interceptions and ran two of them back 27 and 38 yards for touchdowns. His 30-yard return of another interception set up quarterback Bob Griese's two-yard touchdown pass to end Jim Mandich.

Miami's other scores came from the toe of Garo Yepremian, who kicked three extra points and three field goals of 28, 46 and 14 yards.

All of Miami's scoring came in the first two periods of what Shula called "a perfect half of defense." Then the Dolphins had to hang on for dear life in the second half and give the Steelers a two-point safety in the final 64 seconds to salvage victory. It was Miami's 11th win against a lone early season loss to the Oakland Raiders and it tied the Dolphins for the most number of victories, 25, over two regular seasons, Oakland last turning the feat in 1968-69. Miami clinched the AFC East two weeks ago.

Terry Bradshaw, Pittsburgh's No. 1 quarterback, replaced No. 3 Joe Gilliam at the start of the second period and had his first pass picked off by Anderson for a touchdown.

But Bradshaw, playing for the first time since injuring his shoulder Oct. 28, fired up the Steelers for three second half touchdowns and only Miami's sixth pass interception by free safety Jake Scott at the Pittsburgh 42 with only 18 seconds left in the game, assured the Dolphins' victory.

Alternating his passes with the runs of Franco Harris, who collected 105 yards in 15 carries, Bradshaw marched the Steelers to touchdowns on drives of 53 yards in the third period, 71 and 58 yards in the final quarter.

Bradshaw hit running back Preston Pearson with a five-yard pass for the first score, handed off to Harris on a 21-yard slash for the second, then threw 17 yards to end Barry Pearson for the third touchdown, which pulled Pittsburgh to within six points of Miami at 30-24 with 4:38 left to play.

Mintues later, Bobby Walden backed the Dolphins to their own one-yard line with a 51-yard punt and the Pittsburgh defense held. Griese elected to hold the ball and step out of the end zone on fourth down with 1:04 left to play, giving the Steelers two points.

Larry Seiple's free punt from the Miami 20 sailed 83 yards, carrying Pittsburgh's Glen Edwards three yards deep into the end zone. Edwards ran it out to the seven and four plays later Scott intercepted Bradshaw's pass.

"I think we learned a lesson from a championship team about the intensity it takes to win," said Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll.

"I thought we showed a little character in the second half," said Bradshaw.

Billy Backus needs victory over Barajas

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Billy Backus, Carmen Basilio's tough nephew, took Jose Napoles' world welterweight title three years ago this month.

At 30, the 12-year veteran pro from Canastota, N.Y., finds himself virtually fighting for his fistic life.

He's lost two of his three starts this year—both by decision—and has four losses in his last six fights. The other two defeats last year were also by decision.

"I definitely need a win out here," said Backus, who is scheduled to face Mexico's young Zovek Barajas at the Olympic Auditorium Thursday night. "I just can't lose to this guy and I don't think I will."

Backus held the world 147-pound crown for exactly six months and one day. Napoles, who lost to the New Yorker on eye cuts in four rounds, won the title back on an eighth round knockout at Los Angeles June 4, 1971.

Despite his recent record, Backus feels he's a better fighter today than he was when he beat Napoles three years ago.

"It's a matter of experience," he remarked. "I know a lot more about how to fight than I did when I first fought Napoles. Things like crowding your opponent, bobbing and weaving, things like that."

Then there's the matter of motivation.

"Once you've been a champion," Backus said, "you always try a little harder to attain what you've lost. It really makes a great difference how you feel.

"I know the two losses this year and the two last year don't look good on my record but I still feel I have a lot of prestige left. People can't forget about you quite so fast when you're a former champion."

In Barajas, a 22-year-old native of Mazatlan, Mexico, Backus is facing a fighter who scored a stunning victory over Armando Muniz of Los Angeles in October.

The former titleholder is unimpressed.

"Muniz is a slow guy who's easy to hit," said Backus. "Besides Muniz, who has he (Barajas) fought?"

The New York fighter is pulling for Napoles to take Carlos Monzon's middleweight crown away when they meet in Paris next year.

"That would open up the welterweight class," he noted. "They'd have an elimination tournament for the title and I'd get another shot at it."

Herzog joins Angels' staff

HOUSTON (UPI) — Former Texas Rangers' manager Whitey Herzog was named the new third base coach for the California Angels today by general manager Harry Dalton and manager Bobby Winkles.

The 42-year-old Herzog, who will also serve as the Angels' hitting instructor, replaces Salty Parker as third base coach. Parker will switch to coaching at first base, replacing John Roseboro, who moved to the bullpen.

"We're delighted in having hired a coach of Herzog's caliber," said Dalton. "He's one of the most knowledgeable men in the game."

Herzog played eight years in the majors with Washington, Kansas City, Baltimore and Detroit as an outfielder-first baseman. He retired after the 1963 season and in 1967 until 1971 served as director of player development for the New York Mets before taking the manager's job at Texas.

Herzog was fired as Rangers' manager on Sept. 8 last season and replaced by Billy Martin.

Just a few tidbits about U-M Tourney

With the 14th Annual Upland-Montclair High School Basketball Tournament getting underway this afternoon, there might be a few things to keep in mind:

—There are only three teams in the tournament which have won two U-M tourney titles since the tournament began in 1960. Those three include Bonita (1961, 1971), Upland (1969, 1970) and Pomona (1960, 1964). Edgewood, which is no longer in the 16-team event, also won two titles in 1962 and 1963. Other former tourney champions include Montclair (1965), Azusa (1966), Duarte (1967), Claremont (1968), and Garey (1972).

—Jerry Sharman, son of Los Angeles Laker coach Bill Sharman, holds the tournament's individual scoring records for one game and for the entire tourney. Sharman scored 43 points for Charter Oak High in 1963 to record the most points scored by an individual in one game. He finished that tournament with 120 points, which has been the most any individual has scored during the four days of play.

—Edgewood holds the team records for scoring, putting 99 points on the board for one game during the 1963 tournament, and totaled 339 points in four games. Ganesha came close to the Trojans' single-game record last year by scoring 91 points against Charter Oak.

—Three of the ten players from last year's all-tournament team are returning for more action this year. They include Ganesha center Cleve Porter, Azusa center Mike Jantz and Eisenhower center Richard Ramsauer. Porter scored 51 points in four games for the runner-up Giants, Jantz potted 60 points for the consolation champion Aztecs, and Ramsauer netted 59 points for the fith-place champion Eagles.

—Only once in the 14 years of its existence has the tournament lost money. That came in the initial tourney in 1969 when it has been reported that the two schools sponsoring the event lost about two dollars.

—Acutally, the tournament has averaged a profit of $200-$300 per year, which means better than $10 each for co-hosts Upland and Montclair. The estimated cost of putting on the tourney has been figured at somewhere between $2000 to $2500 a year. That includes approximately $900 for officials, $160 for the pre-tournament dinner, and other assorted costs for scorers, cashiers, etc.

—All the teams in the tournament will be using leather basketballs for the first time, as compred to the rubberized balls which have been used in the tourney in the past. For some teams, it might mean a slight difference.

—The price for all tourney games is $2. Individual games prices are 75 cents. Friday night finals are $1. TOURNEY TICKETS ARE GOOD FOR ALL GAMES.

—Tonight's games at Upland include Corona vs. Ontario (6:30 p.m.) and Gladstone vs. Upland (8 p.m.). At Montclair, Northview takes on Eisenhower (6:30 p.m), and Bonita battles Montclair (8 p.m.).

—The tournament begins again Wednesday at 3:15 p.m. at both schools.

Cage coaches feeling good

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — The Southern California basketball luncheons would get good television ratings, especially for people enjoying jokes.

All of the coaches were in good humor at Monday's weekly session.

Of course, most of them are winners after the opening week of the college basketball season.

USC's Bob Boyd is really keeping the audience entertained.

"I was able to see our victory over Arizona again at 3 a.m. Sunday on the delayed TV after I watched John's (Wooden) team win to preserve my streak at Pauley Pavilion," Boyd laughed in referring to his notoriety as the only visiting coach to ever defeat UCLA at Pauley.

Naturally, Boyd is delighted about the Trojans' 100-76 win over highly-touted Arizona.

"It was interesting to scout Arizona in Tucson the night before it played us," Boyd said. "After the impressive win over Illinois, all of the Tucson writers were asking me how would Arizona do against the Buins. I was glad they weren't thinking about the Trojans. Their prospective made it convenient for us."

USC hits the road this week to play Utah and Illinois and Boyd is concerned, especially about Illinois since his players may be complacent after defeating Arizona.

"These games could present some problems for us because of the previous scores," Boyd admitted. "We're very concerned about these games. Bruce Clark and Biff Burrell played very well for us in coming off the bench.

John Wooden, the architect of championships at UCLA, feels some good will come out of the Bruins' one-point victory over Maryland.

"We learned an expensive lesson inexpensively," Wooden said. "We found out a few things about ourselves. Arkansas showed us a weakness against a weaving offense. I was disappointed we let Maryland have a chance to win the game in the late seconds. Fortunately, we got away without losing."

In evaluating his team, Wooden added, "Our defense looks good but our offense hasn't been quite so good. I think our shooting (33.8 per cent) against Maryland was the worst I have ever seen at Pauley Pavilion. The game was very good for both Maryland and us. I always hope we are in a position where a team which beats us has a big celebration."

The Bruins will be favored to win their 78th consecutive game Saturday night when SMU visits Pauley Pavilion in UCLA's final test before the big showdown against No. 2-ranked North Carolina State in St. Louis on Dec. 15.

Lute Olson of Long Beach State enjoyed his debut as the 49ers' head man with an 84-55 whipping of Puget Sound. But Olson's team has its work cut out for it this week with road games at Colorado and San Francisco.

"I wish Colorado and USF were coming here," Olson said. "This will be my first experiences on what it is like on the road so I might not be as mild-mannered I as usually am on the bench."

Both games look like rough hurdles for the 49ers but Long Beach has special reasons to get revenge on USF after the Dons upset Long Beach in last year's NCAA Regionals at Pauley Pavilion.

"I know our players have a strong feeling about the USF game. It should be an intense game," Olson said. "We beat a separate team in Puget Sound. We were happy with our defensive play."

Speaking of the individuals, Olson added, "Rick Aberegg didn't score a point but he may have been our most valuable player. Leonard Gray has been super. If there is a better freshman around than Cliff Pondexter, I would have to see him."

Dick Baker, Loyola athletic director, represented coach Dave Benaderet.

"Our team played very well in winning the Cal Poly Bronco Classic," Baker said. "We have a fine little team. Guard Luther Philyaw was our most outstanding player. After visiting Utah and Gonzaga this week, we return home to host Idaho State Saturday night for our only home game in December."

Pepperdine's Gary Colson didn't win but he was still delighted anyway about the Waves opening their new fieldhouse at the Malibu campus.

"It was very satisfying to play in our new gymnasium," Colson said. "We have a young club and it was great to see it rally against Pacific in the 52-50 loss." Pepperdine hosts Cal State Los Angeles Thurday then travels to Evansville and Dayton.

Azusa Pacific's Cliff Hamlow talked about the Cougars' championship at the Redlands Invitational Tournament.

"Our team played very well," Hamlow said. "If you walked in during our championsmip game with Redlands, you would have thought it was a replay of last year. We're pleased with the play of forwards Rick Reed and Dennis Vanzant."

Oh yes, there was the first winner of the Player of the Week honor.

The award went to a fellow by the name of Bill Walton from UCLA.

There was no award for the College Division.

Tougher rules adopted at meetings

Baseball leaders declare war on spitter

HOUSTON (UPI) — They've been talking about doing something about the spitball for years.

And now they finally have.

They did not bring it back, which some baseball officials and a lot of pitchers had advocated. Instead, the major leagues' rules committee came up with a statute Monday it feels can be and will be enforced in place of the old one.

"Judging from the publicity the spitter received last year," said baseball administrator and rules committee chairman Johnny Johnson, "There was sufficient evidence to show that our rule was not written well.

"I think this rule will be enforced and enforced widely.

Basically the new rule allows an umpire to call a pitch a spitter without having found something wet or greasy on the baseball.

The rules committee action came at the end of what had been a fairly bland opening day of baseball's meetings, sessions which may prove to be more hectic later. Among the things coming up this week will be the question of Oakland owner Charles Finley blocking the move of Manager Dick Williams from the A's to the Yankees, the squabble concerning ownership of the San Diego franchise and a full discussion of the energy crisis and how it might affect baseball.

Trades usually generate most of the excitement at these sessions and there were four here Monday.

The trade involving the biggest names saw the Chicago Cubs dealing 35-year-old Bob Locker to Oakland for sidewinding Horatio Pina, 28.

Locker led the Cubs last year in earned run average (2.55) and saves (18), but reported to Chicago last season only on the promise that he would be traded to the West Coast at the end of the year. Chicago is on a young kick and while Pina is certainly no rookie he is seven years younger than Locker.

In other trades, Houston sent reliever Cecil Upshaw to Cleveland for reliever Jerry Johnson and reliever Jim Ray and infielder Gary Sutherland to Detroit for left-hander Fred Scherman. Atlanta also traded right handed pitcher Ron Schueler to Philadelphia in exchange for another righthanded hurler, Barry Lersch.

But the most significant event was the decision concerning the spitter and what to do about it.

The rules committee —made up of three representatives each from the American League, National League and minor leagues—changed the penalty for throwing the spitter. In so doing, that part of the rule which said an umpire had to detect a "foreign substance" on the ball was eliminated.

Johnson explained that now all an umpire must do to call a spitter is to feel sure in his mind that a ball has been doctored. He does not have to actually see the material placed on the ball.

The first time a pitcher is judged to have thrown a spitter a "ball" will be called. If the same pitcher is called for throwing a second spitter in the same game he is ejected and is subject to further punishment from the league office.

The current rule simply calls for the expulsion of a pitcher if he is caught throwing a spitter, but no pitcher has ever before been puished under that rule.

"The implication was that the rule as it now stands was not being enforced," said Johnson. "There was a very active, very long discussion of it. All of us thought this was the best approach and I think it will be enforced."

Dodgers rehire Maury Wills

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers have rehired Maury Wills as a special organizational coaching instructor, it was announced Monday.

"Maury will be with us this spring," Dodger vice president Al Campanis said Monday, "and then during the summer he will visit our minor league teams and also work with the Dodgers."

Wills, 41, will continue to be employed as a baseball announcer for NBC.

Lakers hopeful of rebounding

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Losers of two straight and out of first place in the NBA's Pacific Division for the first time since Nov. 9, the Los Angeles Lakers face the Phoenix Suns tonight.

The Lakers also are at home Friday night against the Seattle Sonics and play at Golden State Saturday night. They're back at the Forum to play the Captial Bullets Sunday night.

Pirates trade Briles to K.C.

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates today sent veteran righthanded pitcher Nelson Briles to the Kansas City Royals in exchange for catcher Ed Kirkpatrick as part of a five-player, inter-league trade.

In addition to Briles, the Pirates also sent infielder Fernando Gonzalez to the Royals for utility man Kurt Bevacqua and minor league first baseman Winston Cole.

The 30-year-old Briles posted a 14-13 record last season in 33 starts with a 2.84 earned run average. Briles was traded to the Pirates along with outfielder Vic Davalillo by St. Louis in 1971 in exchange for outfielder Matty Alou and pitcher George Brunet in January, 1971.

In his nine seasons in the majors, Briles has a lifetime record of 97-82.

The 29-year-old Kirkpatrick, who also has played first base and the outfield in addition to catching, batted .263 and drove in 45 runs for the Royals last season. He broke into the major leagues with the Los Angeles Angels at the end of the 1962 season and has also played with Seattle and California during his major league career.

San Dimas Saints edge Damien, 57-56, in thriller

By TOM FAHEY
P-B Correspondent

SAN DIMAS — Matt Draayom's two baskets in the final minute of play helped the San Dimas Saints to their first basketball victory of the season, a 57-56 thriller over the visiting Damien Spartans Monday night at San Dimas High.

The fast-moving contest started out with San Dimas taking the lead on a basket by Greg McCrary.

The Spartans came right back on a Gerard Piccioni two-pointer tieing the score and starting the rough battle.

Damien never had the lead and outside of the tie at 2-2, they did not deadlock the Saints until four minutes left in the game at 47-47.

McCrary, who scored 16 points for the night before fouling out midway in the fourth quarter, paced his team, with 14 first-half points, to a 35-28 halftime lead.

The Spartans and Saints came out the third quarter with strong defenses. With both teams claiming their own defensive boards, neither team could muster more than two shots any one time down.

San Dimas pulled out to its largest lead of the game at 41-31, and looked like it were going to run away with it.

The Spartans had other ideas.

Gary Turner hit a bucket for the Spartans and then Gerard Piccioni fed two beautiful passes to Bill Karr who connected on both shots and the Spartans were back in the game at 41-37.

The Saints then suffered a severe blow when McCrary was cited for his fifth personal foul removing him from the game.

The Spartans kept coming back and finally tied the Saints at 47-47 with four minutes remaining in the game.

The two teams exchanged buckets and with three minutes remaining the score was 49-49.

The Saints took the lead for good 51-49 on a twisiting lay-up, by guard Jim Johnson, that brought the crowd to their feet.

After the Saints topped the Spartans, Draayon connected on a lay-up for a four-point margin.

Karr brought the Spartans back to within one, on a long outside jumper and a free throw.

However, the Spartans then fell victim to Draayom again, as he dropped in two more-lay-ups for a bulging 57-52 lead with 30 seconds left.

The Spartans did come back with baskets by Larry Pekarcik and John Pignotti, but the buzzer went off on Pignotti's bucket, thus giving the Saints the game.

Karr and Pignotti, the two Spartan guards, had outstanding nights scoring 16 and 15 points respectively.

The Spartans, who were supposed to be dominated by the Saints on the boards, held their own. From his center position, Pekarcik played superbly, scoring six points, grabbing a total of 16 rebounds and all night being in the right place at the right time.

The Saint's scoring punch was headed by McCrary and Draayom who threw in 16 and 15 points.

Draayom also was intimidating, blocking four shots and keeping the Spartan shooters outside.

San Dimas' next opponent will be the Nogales Nobles Wednesday night at Nogales at 7 p.m.

Damien will move on into the Bishop Amat tournament taking place Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday.

Prep cagers keeping busy in tourneys

The Upland-Montclair Tournament won't be the only high school basketball action seen this week in the Pomona Valley.

The U-M Tourney, which started today, will be joined by the Bishop Amat Tourney where Damien is competing. The Spartans play host to Bishop Amat at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Chaffey, which opened its season with a 67-58 loss to Covina, defeated Schurr, 84-77, in the first round of Monday's action at the Arroyo Tournament. The Tigers return to action at 3 p.m. Wednesday in a rematch against Covina.

Chino traveled to Temple City this afternoon to take on the Rams in its season opener, and Rowland hosts Cantwell today at 5 p.m.

Walnut will head for Bell Gardens for a 7 p.m. game to open its 1973-74 season Wednesday night.

Webb School will host Heritage at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday afternoon and will be hoping to jump back into the win column after losing to Whittier Christian, 59-34, last weekend.

Leos make home debut at Bonita gym

Threee local college basketball squads will see action tonight in games that shape up as exciting contests.

Azusa-Pacific, fresh from copping the Redlands Tourney title, will visit a tough Whittier team. The Cougars have looked very strong thus far but should get their sternest test yet from the Poets. Whittier opened its' season by dropping a tough 91-83 decision to highly-regarded UC Riverside. Game-time is set for 8:15 p.m. at the Poet gym.

La Verne will try to bounce back from an opening loss to Westmont tonight, and will be hosting L.A. Baptist. Baptist has the reputation of being a high-scoring five, so the Leos ought to get plenty of work on defense. This one is also slated for an 8:15 p.m. tip-off and will be played at the Bonita High gym.

Pomona-Pitzer will travel to Riverside to face Cal Baptist tonight. The Sagehens opened with a win over LIFE College, but dropped a 78-69 game to Point Loma to even their record at 1-1. Pomona-Pitzer will try to climb over that .500 mark against the Lancers, who hold a 1-3 season mark after Redlands Tourney play last weekend. Tip-off will be a 8 p.m. at the Cal Baptist gym.

Mounties eye third victory

SAN BERNARDINO — Mt. San Antonio seeks its third basketball win of the season tonight when it faces San Bernardino Valley College here in an 8 p.m. game.

The Mounties are coming off a weekend road trip in the Fresno area where they split decisions with Reedley and Fresno City College.

MSAC beat Reedley, 76-59, and lost to Fresno, 74-66, to run its record to 2-4 for the season. San Bernardino is 1-4.

Mountie center Gary Nash continues to lead the team in scoring with a 23.2 average and in rebounds with 14 per game.

Head coach Gene Victor shook up his lineup on the trip by starting forward Carl Williamson and guard Mark Gibson for the first time.

Tonight's tentative starting lineup for the Mounties will have Williamson (6-2, soph) and Dan Carroll (6-7, soph) at forwards, Nash (6-10, soph) at center, and Gibson (6-2, freshman) and Steve Arthur (5-10, soph) at guards.

Mounties finish eighth in tourney

Steve Pivac, a sophomore from Ganesha High, was runnerup in the 118-pound class, losing in overtime to Joe Rosada of Phoenix, who was one of the top wrestlers in the Junior World Championships in Europe last summer. Pivac is 13-2 for the season.

The Mounties return to action Wednesday in the Palomar Tournamenh in Escondido.

Bear Bryant leads 'Bama to UPI title

NEW YORK (UPI) — The cry of "We're No. 1" became official in Tuscaloosa, Ala. today as Alabama's Crimson Tide, one of the most talent-laden college football teams in history, was named national champion for 1973 by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

Coach Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide, which swept to a perfect 11-0 season without so much as a even a scare, received 21 first place votes and 325 points from the 34 coaches participting in the final ratings. Oklahoma, which finished with a 10-0-1 mark, was a distant second with nine first place votes and 292 points.

It was the third national championship for Alabama—the other two, 1961 and 1964 also coming under Bryant's coaching tenure. The UPI national championship, in an agreement with the American Football Coaches Association, is decided on regular season play only.

Alabama, ranked second in the nation in total offense, third in rushing offense and third in scoring, won all of its games in 1973 by at least two touchdowns and shut out four opponents— California 66-0, Vanderbilt 44-0, Mississippi State 35-0 and Auburn 35-0--in addition to posting one of the most onesided wins ever—77-6 over Virginia Tech.

Ohio State, which is going to the Rose Bowl, and Notre Dame, which is going to the Sugar Bowl to face Alabama, remained 3-4 respectively in the final ratings.

But Penn State, which faces LSU in the Orange Bowl, replaced Michigan as the No. 5 team.

Michigan, still smarting from its Rose Bowl rebuff by the Big Ten, wound up sixth, followed in order by Southern California, Texas, UCLA and Arizona State.

The second 10 was led by Nebraska and Texas Tech (tied at No. 11), Houston (13th), Louisiana State (14th), Kansas and Tulane (tied at No. 15), Miami of Ohio (17th) and a three way tie among Maryland, San Diego State and Florida at No. 18.

Big Ten gives Duke a vote of confidence

CHICAGO (UPI) — Big Ten faculty representatives have given commissioner Wayne Duke a vote of confidence in the selection of Ohio State for the Rose Bowl.

Duke was also asked to investigate whether Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler was guilty of unsportsmanlike conduct in the verbal barbs he threw after the Wolverines were bypassed for the bowl.

Schembechler had charged in harsh statements Nov. 25 and 26 that Duke influenced and "engineered" the athletic directors' vote after the Wolverines and Buckeyes played to a 10-10 tie and finished co-champions of the Big Ten with 7-0-1 records.

The faculty representatives spent all day Monday interviewing the conference's athletic directors about how they voted and whether Duke attempted to influence them. They issued a statement exonerating him.

The faculty action directed Duke to make whatever investigation "he deemed proper ... regarding whether there was any unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of any individuals employed by or associated with any athletic programs of any of the conference institutions in connection with the selection" of the Rose Bowl representative.

Duke was also instructed to report the results of his investigation to the faculty group and recommend punishment. Under conference rules only the faculty representatives can mete out punishment.

West Coast cage powers struggling in early action

What's with the West Coast basketball teams?

Highly-touted UCLA, Stanford and San Francisco have all had problems while the unsung Nevada Wolfpack are off to the best start of all.

After top-rated UCLA showed it was fallible by edging Maryland only 65-64 at home Saturday, the upset mood continued Monday night when Stanford took the 10th-ranked San Francisco Dons 63-61 in overtime.

Scott Trobbe scored on a follow shot with eight seconds left in the extra stanza after regulation play had ended 53-53. Phil Smith had 24 for USF and 7-foot Rich Kelley 16 for the Cards.

Both teams emerged with a 1-1 record since Stanford was upset last Friday at home by Nevada-Reno, which scored it's second straight big win Monday by taking LSU 97-86.

Elsewhere Monday, West Coast quintets learned that it is hard to win those intersectionals on the road.

The Cal Aggies didn't score a point for the first eight minutes and wound up on the short end of a 97-53 battle at Wisconsin.

Oregon State fell 89-75 at New Mexico as the Beavers managed only four rebounds in the second half. Rich Plante led the losers with 23 and 6-11 Steve Ericksen added 19 but had to sit out much of the contest with foul trouble.

Seattle fell at Utah State 71-66 although Rod Derline had 23 for the losers. Portland went into the meatcleaver at Marquette and trailed 30-6 and 46-19 before losing 83-46. Floyd Banks hit 17 for the Pilots.

Other scores: Eastern Washington beat Lewis and Clark State 103-67, UC Riverside downed Northern Arizona 97-64, St. Martins beat Lewis and Clark 86-78, Chico State beat Puget Sound 76-59, Portland State edged Montana 66-64, Hawaii ripped South Alabama 97-78, Arizona State nipped Wichita State 86-83, Arizona clubbed Colorado 91-76, and Utah outlasted Loyola 108-104.

In a recent tournament at the Newport Harbor club, Bill Shonborn, Alice Ovington and Wayne Ovington tied for first place with three wins and a plus 22 . . . earlier this month at the Pomona greens, Don Bowman and Don Blair teamed with Davey Dahl of the Arroyo club to take second place in the Quinell Rinks Tournament.

Kings try to end loss skein

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Kings, only one point from being in the cellar in the NHL West, attempt to end a 10-game unbeaten streak tonight when they face the Vancouver Canucks.

Winners of only 5 of 23 games this season, the Kings are at home Wednesday night against Pittsburgh and Saturday night against Atlanta.

Sharks eye fifth win in a row

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Sharks bid for their fifth straight WHA win tonight when they end a three-game road trip against the Minnesota Fighting Saints.

By winning four games in a row, the Sharks have climbed out of the cellar in the Western Division with 20 points on a 10-16 record. Edmonton leads the division with 30 points.

many adults find true happiness!

Happiness means many things to many people. In their constant search for happiness, they have eaten more steaks, drank more wine, gathered, danced, joined clubs, and are now using computers to match-mate, and get together. Some say it is cold and impersonal. The question on everyone's lips today is, "can a machine help sincere, fun-loving adults find true happiness?" We think they can! Many adults, both young and old, tell us that our machines do bring true and everlasting happiness. Here at Pomona Valley Datsun on Holt across from Zody's in Pomona, we sell fun and 240Z's, happiness and Datsun 610's, contentment and new B-210's. Come see the happiness machines and do a fun thing today!

CLAREMONT

There's a Christmas shopping treat awaiting you in Claremont. You'll enjoy shopping in its friendly leisurely atmosphere . . . in attractive, gaily decorated shops and stores . . . loaded with fascinating, unusual gifts for the entire family. Bring the children, they'll thrill to the "Christmasy" feeling they'll experience. You will, too.

Teddy bear has heartbeat

Stuffed toys and animals are always fun gifts to give babies, children and teens during the holidays.

One of the most unusual stuffed toys to cross the Christmas toy counters is Dear Heart, the cuddlesome, loveable teddy bear — the world's first toy animal with a heartbeat.

Snap Dear Heart's front paws together to activate the realistic rhythmic beat, pulsing from a battery-powered electronic device in his back.

Dear Heart's fans include everyone who has ever cuddled an endearing stuffed animal. Even puppies and kittens curl up with him. Children snuggle up with him, teens adore his originality, and even adults become mesmerized while caressing him. In fact, Dear Heart's rhythmic heartbeat has a soothing effect on everyone.

He is a special friend to babies and very young children. Recent scientific studies have indicated that babies comforted by the steady sound of a heartbeat gain weight more rapidly and cry less than babies not exposed to the rhythmic beat. Dear Heart is a natural companion for the infant or young child at bedtime. In a quiet room Dear Heart's pulse can be heard for several feet.

It is common knowledge that puppies and kittens who have been separated from their mothers are soothed by the sound of a steady beat such as the tick of a clock. Dear Heart helps these new "orphans" relax and enjoy their new homes.

Dear Heart is approximately nine inches tall, made of completely safe American K-plush, a synthetic fur, and filled with polyfoam. Both materials are non-toxic, non-allergenic and fireproof.

Dear Heart's beat is transmitted by two 1½-volt batteries which are encased within an infant-proof zippered pocket along his back. Each set of batteries lasts approximately 300 hours.

Dear Heart is available in almost every kind of store imaginable, such as toy shops., drug stores, gift shops and large department stores.

Cookie 'how tos' listed

A cookie press is a wonderful time saver in making clever Christmas cookies, but there are a few hints to follow in order to assure success.

The cookie dough must be soft and pliable. Variations in flour and the size of eggs sometimes make it necessary to omit or add a tablespoon or three of flour. When dough is too stiff, an egg white should be added.

When dough is mixed by hand, it may be necessary to use a bit less flour than the recipe calls for. Do not chill the dough.

Amy Vanderbilt gives Christmas gift ideas

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Last year I used a number of your great Christmas gift suggestions. Do you have more for us? Twenty-five dollars or under, please.—Mrs. E.D., Providence, R.I."

Men or women planning to ski this winter in St. Moritz, Davos, Les Diablerets or Zurs will appreciate a gift membership in the Swissair Alpine Society. The $25 fee includes a gift kit worth that price alone: the kit contains a custom boot carrier, a ski sweater (in the size you designate), a book on Alpine skiing, a subscription to a new Alpine ski publication,a tape cassette of Alpine music and a membership card entitling the holder to a ski lift pass, shop discounts, invitations to special events, and so on. When he buys his airline tickets, they will arrive in a real leather passport case. For information, write Swissair Alpine Society, Dept. Z, 608 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10020.

For a gourmet cook of either sex, here's a really big cookbook, elegantly printed and written by a cook who knows what she is talking about: "The Seasonal Kitchen, A Return to Fresh Foods" by Perla Meyers (Holt, Rinehart & Winston, $12.95).

The author teaches creative cooking in her New York school, but she spends three months each year working in some of the greatest restaurants of Paris, Milan and Vienna.

Another cookbook which ties right in with our increased use of pasta is "The Family Cookbook: Italian" by Charlotte Adams and Alvin Kerr (Holt, Reinhart & Winton, $9.95).

For anyone interested in finance and economics and an exciting story, "The Billion-Dollar Sure Thing," a novel by Paul E. Erdman (Scribner's, $6.95).

With many people now using decanters for "small wines," the Metropolitan Museum's beautiful reproduction of a quilted, diamond and sunburst decanter with acorn stopper, blown three-mold glass, ca. 1820, capacity 28 oz. In crystal $15, or golden amber $20.

Send for the Metropolitan Museum of Art's Christmas catalogue, which contains many beautiful gift ideas in your price range, even under $3. It offers unusual, quality Christmas cards as low as ten cents each. For the catalogue, send 25 cents in coin to Metropolitan Museum of Art Cataloque, Box 255, Dept. XV, Gracie Square Station, New York, N.Y. 10028.

For a meat-and-potatoes man, fix up a little gift basket of Sauce Robert, Lea & Perrins Worcestershire, Pickapeppa Sauce, Tabasco, interesting mustards such as Savora or Dessaux Fils.

For someone who loves New England, the Vermont Life Engagement Book 1974 from The Stephen Green Press, $2.95.

For the boy or girl away at college, or the executive, new Sunbeam Hotshot Hot Beverage Maker (makes hot water for instant coffee, tea, soup or cocoa in 90 seconds). It comes in light gold only, approximately $18. For a teenage boy, a collection of bright-colored stretch socks in Acrilan or other non-shrink fabric. For a teen-age girl, a clamp-on high intensity desk lamp or a beautifully bound blank book to be used as a diary, scrap book or what have-you available in stationery stores, books stores and book departments.

For almost anyone, personal bookplates. You can send for the catalogue and let them choose their own bookplates for delivery after Christmas. Imprinted, 100 are approximately $6. Write for the free color catalogue to Berliner & McGinnis, Dept. 4, Nevada City, Calif. 95959.

For a large family, a roast of beef or a whole ham for the freezer. For someone who sews, a Key West Handprint catalogue of unusual hand prints (drip-dry) from $4.25 a yard. They print Lily Pulitzer's exclusive designs. The catalogue is $1 from Key West Fabrics, Inc., Dept. A, 529 Front St., Key West, Fla. 53040. (They also have dresses in fabrics you choose from size 6 to 20, under $50).

Blossoms bring note of cheer

Today, trimming the tree is a family tradition, and decorations may range from trinkets once used by grandmother to garlands of freshly popped corn.

Clusters of fresh flowers are modern day trimmings for the tree. For a holiday open house, small corsages and boutonnieres tied to your tree's branches will make festive party favors. Ask your guests to choose flowers from the tree to accent their holiday finery.

Fresh greenery and flowers in gay Christmas colors will carry the holiday mood all through the home. Arrangements for the foyer offer instant cheer to all Christmas callers, experts suggest a full, round arrangement of holly and roses or carnations for the hall table, or a basket of greens, blossoms and frosted pine cones to hang from a chandelier or archway.

For the mantel, two small floral arrangements make a lovely frame for a creche, and round bouquets set in low vases can be used in centerpieces as well as decorations for the living room.

The most popular holiday color in flowers is red to express joy and laughter.

Editor makes her own news

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — The women's editor of the Oakland Tribune gave birth to a girl a few feet from the paper's city room and right at deadline Wednesday.

Mrs. Joan White, 37 was taken to the women's lounge and was attended by eight women reporters after she felt pains that seemed urgent at 12:25 p.m.

When Mrs. White's doctor arrived, he packed mother and child off to the hospital, saying they appeared to be in good condition.

Mrs. White, who has three other children, said the new daughter's name will be Lockey Elizabeth White.

HOME GIFTS of stainless steel are carried at Foster's Jewelers, 319 Yale Ave., Claremont. Silver pieces, collector's gifts, pen sets and a wide selection of fine jewelry are stocked for holiday giving. A display of jewelry for teens is a store feature.

Looking for a way to streamline your Christmas shopping and at the same time be sure your gift will be eagerly received? The answer is to get something for the home rather than the individual.

Whether home is a one-room efficiency in the city, a ranch-style dwelling in the suburbs, or a vacation hideaway, there are all sorts of imaginative gifts that will bring hours of pleasure to its occupants.

To get you started with your list, here are some suggestions from House & Garden magazine, who presented the house gift idea several years ago.

Anyone with a culinary bent, for instance, would appreciate a kitchen center, an ice cream machine, a salad dryer or porcelain quiche pans. And if there's a health food fan on your list, consider a yogurt maker.

The hostess who enjoys a houseful of week-end guests will thank you many times for such rainy-day diversions as jigsaw puzzles, chess, backgammon, duplicate bridge, or perhaps an Italian soccer game table. A few Persian carpet floor pillows would solve her party seating problems handsomely.

Why not start a tradition for newlyweds and give them Christmas stockings they can hang up their first Christmas together?

How about helping your favorite city gardener's green thumb along with a plant light?

A happy choice for the camper, hunter or fisherman, a sleeping bag would also be treasured by families short on space but long on hospitality and visiting teen-agers.

If you need inspiration, you'll find House & Garden House Gift Boutiques in stores across the country. See if you don't agree Christmas shopping the house gift way is more fun. You'll know it's the thoughtful way to give when you see the pleasure your house presents will bring.

Bars urged to reduce hours

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — The Michigan Licensed Beverage Association, with an eye on the energy crisis, urged all clubs and businesses serving or selling alcoholic beverages in Michigan to cut their hours by 15 per cent.

"Clubs and businesses licenses by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission are permitted by law to be open 128 hours a week," said Eddy Shepherd, coordinator of activities for the association.

"A 15 per cent reduction in operating hours would reduce the opening time of 22,000 licensed establishments by 418,000 hours, a substantial saving in this emergency."

"X-mas" spelling explained

Why is "Christmas" sometimes written "Xmas"?

"X" is the Greek letter symbol that is used to represent the name, "Christ."

This symbol has been discovered by many archaeological expeditions on the walls of early-Christian period catacombs.

Quite recently, a group of scientists discovered the name of Jesus, carved before 70 A.D., among the inscriptions on eleven early-Christmas urns.

These urns were uncovered in a cave on the Bethlehem to Jerusalem Road.

It is believed that these writings were left by a sect of Hebrews who were followers of Christ and who had denounced Pontius Pilate.

Cologne has collectors' bottles

Christmas 1973 is portrayed as a froty night and a starry sky in Je Reviens' new presentation of its unique cologne.

Each spherical Laiique bottle is characterized by clear stars scattered on its frosty surface. It's the embodiment of the night before Christmas.

Je Reviens, made from the heart of orange, jasmine and other white blossoms, is blended with aged alchohol to produce a soft and smooth fragrance. The scent, imported from France, combines with the essence of its wearer

Each bottle, measuring about six inches in height, contains 12 ½ ounces of Je Reiviens cologne and retails at $25. Its circular stopper is etched with Worth's famous "W" trademark.

A Paris firm, Worth has created a limited edition of these eqxuisite and valuable bottles to celebrate Christmas 1973. After Christmas Worth's Latique bottles are expected to become collector's items.

GRISWOLD'S OLD SCHOOL HOUSE

Foothill at Indian Hill—Claremont

HOLIDAY APPAREL — Linda Graham models a two-piece velveteen ensemble from Town and Country Fashions, 276 W. Second St., Claremont. The store is well-stocked with gift ideas for all the ladies. Personal service is an extra shopping bonus.

Toys to ride delight children

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nothing delights more at Christmas than a toy a child can ride — bike, wagon, sled, hobby horse and such fun things.

Among new riding toys is the Mr. Potato Head. Fashioned after the popular Mr. Potato Head, the four-wheel toy has a removable saddle with storage space for removable facial features. Mr. Potato Head will carry 65 pounds.

The newest in spring-powered rocking horses has the authentic look of a corral. The horses are attached to simulated wood corral posts and beams molded of unbreakable polyethylene plastic.

For the smallest tot there is a spring mounted colt that functions as a tot walker and later as a spring horse.

Also for riding are tiny tug, circus wagon, tot train, and the li'l fire truck. For toddlers, these move from here to there on casters.

All sorts of wooden riding horses are available.

The number one favortie is the wood rocking horse with adorable, hand-painted features that give happy faces. Parents love the horses almost as much as the kids do.

Toby Cook, founder of Toby Toys of America, Sacramento, made his first hobby horse over 20 years ago, for his own little boy. Other children saw it, wanted one and well, that's how Toby Toys got started. There also is a giraffe in the line. His name is Jasper.

If snow's expected, the Santa presents include snow scoots. These are oval shaped and have rudders to enable the rider to steer to left or right by pull of a rope. The scoot is made of plastic and manufactured by Funopoly of Jackson Heights, N.Y.

For the family, toboggans are worth considering. If Santa drops one off, make sure he includes a toboggan pad.

Also interesting for snow time are coasting sheets. These are 18-inch-by-42-inch sheets of durable polyethylene with hand holes. You sit on one, hold the front part up like a toboggan and whiz down the slope.

The AMF Wheel Goods unit at Olney, Ill., is in with a "wee hot seat." This is a junior version of the 1972 classic, especailly engineered for toddlers and tots from two to four years of age. The wee hot seat features a high-impact molded plastic bucket seat and twin strut chopper handlebars.

The newest thing on wheels for smallsters is an all-terrain truck. From Garton Toy Co. in Sheboygan, Wis., the truck looks like a tricycle in front. In the back is a cargo-carrying wagon, complete with four huge wheels.

In the sidewalk bike class are such things as sonda scramblers and lady sondas. These are play versions of Honda bikes. Actually they are scooters with seats. Training wheels aft keep rider from tipping.

For the do-it-yourselfers there is a you-ride-it racer kit — wire spoke wheels and all the other parts.

Pedal cars are good for the pre-school set and include all the favorites — racers, fire trucks.

The newest thing in bikes is one with six-way adjustable handlebars. The kids can have a diferent bike every day.

For the not so steady among adults wanting pedal power there is the adult tricycle complete with carrying basket at the rear. For young citizens, lazy riders and folks who just never learned to ride a two wheeler.

Santa also may want to consider a wind cruiser. This is from X-potential Enterprises, Fountain Valley, Calif.

The Wind Cruiser, is a ship on wheels, a wheeled child's riding vehicle powered by the wind. It has a tall mast sporting a giant colorful sail.

The manufacturer says the wind cruiser has been designed with the consultation of expert sail makers and is scaled and proportioned to permit sailability on land. It is packaged as a build and ride creative play toy.

With this a child can learn the science and art of sailing in the safe environment of the sidewalk or playgrounds while his fancy takes him on imagined pirate coves.

A child can be a captain brave or a pirate bold without leaving home.

No Rudolphs among them

HELSINKI (UPI) — Reindeer in the Finnish province of Sodankylaerae will be equipped with reflectors this winter, a spokesman of the local Lap association said.

More than 1700 reindee,r are struck by automobiles and killed in northern Finland each year and reindeer owners said they hoped reflectors strapped around the necks of the animals, will help save lives.

Card courtesy tips given

Whose name comes first if you use a card with your names printed or engraved on it?

Here the wife's name is courteously used first: "Mary and Tom" (or "Mary and Tom Green").

If a Christmas card is engraved with the sender's names, with "Mr. and Mrs.," should these be at the top or bottom of the card?

Always at the top. Otherwise, they might seem like a signature.

When signing the card, whose name is written first — the husband's or wife's?

It is courteous for the person signing the card to write the other's name first. For example, if you sign the card for yourself and your husband, it should read: "Tom and Mary".

Woodsy Owl toy has ecology message

Woodsy Owl, a colorful stuffed doll, is both an ecology symbol and an educational toy for little boys and girls.

Woodsy is the official ecology mascot of the Department of Agriculture Forest Service — and he speaks for all the creatures of the forest with his message: "Give a Hoot—Don't Pollute."

Boys and Girls can learn as they play with Woodsy. His pants and vest have plastic buttons and snaps, plus a zipper, laces, and a hook and eye. His forest green pants, brown vest and Robin Hood hat make him a lovable creature. Woodsy weighs about 15 ounces and is stuffed with 100 per cent cotton. He is packaged in a carton made of recycled cardboard.

Improper equipment costs peanut growers

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Use of improper or poorly adjusted equipment cost Texas penaut growers $1.5 million in damaged penauts last year.

James S. Denton, area economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension service, said the faulty equipment causes split kernels, loose shelled kernels and foreign material in the peanuts, lowering their grade.

Shop for safety

It's sure to be a happer holiday this year if you shop for safety when buying gifts and decorations for every member of the family.

The National Safety Council warns about the special dangers that can rob the season of its joy. Now, more safety-designed Christmas gifts and decoratiions are available than ever before, and by following a few simple tips, shoppers can learn to prevent many holiday hazards before they happen.

First, be sure to select Christmas decorations with safety in mind. A fire-proof artificial tree eliminates a major fire hazard — the brittle branches of a dried-out tree. Trim your tree and house with decorations that won't burn. Shimmering ornaments of flame-retardant acetate are as safe as they are festive.

What goes under the tree is equally important. Toys should be carefully selected to suit the age of the child. Toddlers and infants should never be given a toy with sharp edges, points or removable parts that can be swallowed or poked in a nose, eye or ear.

Craft kits are fun for older children, but they should also be safe. Heating units and play ovens can inflict serious burns on an inexperienced youngster. All electrical toys should carry the Underwriter Laboratories label.

If shooting toys must b ven, they should go only der children and the pr tiles should have soft r tips!

Children's sleepwear safer gift than ever, than the new laws which f sale of flammable sleep in sizes 0-6X. Many man turers are marketing sleepwear containing f such as Safyr for older dren as well, making fireside evenings less w for parents than ever bef

Kitchen goodies good gifts

Delicious goodies from own kitchen are always derful gifts. But, what m them even nicer is the you dress them up.

Little individual cakes, instance, are so gay v tied with ribbons.

Joys of holidays center in the home

The simple joys of Christmas, the lasting, remembered ones, are centered in the home.

A fond holiday memory is always a flashback of happy times mingled with things held dear. To give a gift that captures and keeps the glow of Christmas for cheering the year through its merry wishing in tree-topping form. And that's a gift for the home, to linger lovingly over Christmasses past and bring happiness in the future.

Give silver to get a favorite home going and glowing in holiday time. Even the young are reawakening to the tradition of beauty, elegance, authentic preciousness that is inherently silver's. The simplicity of early patterns, the decorative ornateness in the more recent, the discreet edging in gold that combines two precious metals in a graceful richness provide a sterling wish for every taste. And anywhere in the gift house. From talbe to bath, silver flatware, holloware and deccorative items will get the home glowing—and keep it that way.

China and crystal are berry bright gifts to mingle with the holly and ivy. If place settings of china attract your gifting fancy, check on pattern preferences. Traditional, romantic patterns are making new friends for elegance, the Oriental motif is strong and causal china is lighter, brighter, splashy colors that have coordinating ability are set on modern tables. Don't forget oven-to-table-to-dishwasher china, especially those pieces with serving potential. And look for patterns matching dinnerware! A new help with table-top gifting is the idea of coordinating carried to the ultimate with silver, china and crystal matched as potential table partners.

Crystal stemware is colored for cheery gifting with contemporary styling. But the deep cut traditionals make lavish and correct gifts, too. Anything that has to do with wine drinking, whether it 's a decanter or special sized stemware, is a smart, surefire gift choice for this Yule. Decorative crystal pieces will be found color-touched also, and elegantly gold or silver trimmed.

Pewter has its own chic and sophisticated beauty that blends well with stainless, casual dinnerware, place mats, contemporary lead glassware. In short, everything the young, chic and sophisticated choose for their homes. And its Early American purity is just in time to catch the Bicentennial fever. Traditional pewter lovers want the satin finish because of its more authentic look and faithfulness to reproductions. The bright finish is popular with those who prize pewter for its decorative, easy care attributes. Gift ideas range from the Americana mood of mugs, candlesticks, sugar and creamer, chamberstick lamp to the modern graphics found in a large centerpiece bowl, bamboo patterned bud vase, chip 'n dip tray.

Stainless is functional, elementary, stain-scratch-dent-resistant, goes from oven to table to dishwasher: no wonder it's so much a part of today's world. If your stainless gift is meant to lend a helping hand in a young home where both husband and wife share the chores, and the cleaning up, you're right on target. From a 50-piece stainless flatware service to vegetable dishes, serving trays, salad set, coffee set, patterns of design distinction are as much a part of the stainless charm as is practicality. And since coordination is the keynote, you can't go wrong with your mood choices.

Still other gifts are for those homes that accent traditional elegance and a particular pride in the ownership and display of the unique. For these homes is the gift of a limited edition, an historical reproduction, a gift in series that promises a new joy for Christmasses to come. Limited edition plates in silver, pewter, bone china, porcelain, glass commemorate every subject from Christmas and the Bicentennial to the environment, making this a special way to gift the home and the collector who lives there.

Signed powter sculptures depicting a definite nostalgia for childhood, signed prints of paintings, 1973 Christmas editions of plates, tree ornaments, reproduction of an antique mantel clock, grandfather clock, a spoon collection replete with Early American history, procelain figurines of unusual naturalness and beauty: all are extraordinary gifts for the home that loves them.

A clock gift is one that's welcomed down every chimney on Christmas Eve. Gift a wall with an antique pewter coffee pot, a country air complete with pine touches and a planter, a weather station, framed electronic digitals that's like a flashing photo.

Greetings sending is popular

If you're proud of the number of Christmas cards you and your family receive and count up the total year, your secret is out.

According to a study by American Greetings Corporation about 56 per cent of American families take the trouble to count their cards, 47 per cent find a spot in the house to display them, and nearly a third keep the cards they receive until the following Christmas.

More than 95 per cent of all Americans send and receive Christmas cards, which adds up to a whopping 3.5 billion envelopes going through the U.S. postal system on an average each year.

Putting together the Christmas card list appears to be a pervasive activity around the holiday season, and for about 17 per cent of American families the list may go over 100 names. About 25 per cent of those who send cards keep their list to between 25 and 50, about 28 per cent send out between 50 and 75 cards, and nearly 21 per cent send from 7 up to 100.

Most Christmas cards, says American Greetings, are selected by women alone, but in about 18 per cent of all families the choice is a joint one made by both husband and wife. Most selections are likely to be what the major card designer calls traditional, and about a third will be religious in tone.

About two-thirds of all families generally buy more than one card design, and special people get specially selected designs.

Watered down

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley knocked over pitcher of water the final day of the Alabama lesislature's 1973 regular session and had to stop the Sente so he could mop up his desk. He serves as the Senate's presiding officer.

BACKSEAT DRIVER PROBLEM?

Sometimes a backseat driver problem is nice to have. But if you're not always so lucky, maybe we can help.

By keeping a fresh copy of the Progress-Bulletin easily at hand in your vehicle, you'll be able to keep most backseat drivers in their place. They'll be too busy perusing our editorial views to bug you about the view up ahead. Their attention will be on our news columns rather than your steering column. You'll enjoy more peace of mind since you won't constantly be getting a piece of theirs.

Incidentally, when in Rome you don't necessarily do it like the Romans do. Never look back. Today's news being tomorrow's history, it's nearly always better — and safer, too, if you're driving — to keep your eyes on the curves up ahead.

ABOUT THE PHOTOGRAPH

Our photo shows the ancient Roman Coliseum, where some nineteen hundred years ago gladiators fought to the death, Christians were massacred as spectacle, chariots raced. Today in Rome, the chariots have been replaced by scooters and small cars, and the backseat rider is par for the course. As to that copy of the Progress-Bulletin, we do get around.

Freezer gift aids homemaker

How would you like a Christmas gift that will help make your life a little easier and benefit your entire family?

A freezer can do just that. It allows you to practice "freezer living" — cooking a double or triple recipe, one to eat now, the rest to be frozen for future use. With a freezer you also can fight increasing food costs and threatened shortages by stockpiling favorite family foods when they are on sale.

There's a freezer to fit almost every family need and lifestyle. If floor space is limited in your house or apartment, a good choice would be a 11.6 cu. ft. upright.

This space-saving freezer, only 24-inches wide and 31½ inches deep, fits easily into almost any kitchen. It also has flush-hinged doors so it can sit snugly in a corner or next to a cabinet.

Because of the thinwall foam construction, many freezers give you more storage space for your freezer dollar. Sturdy grille-type shelves accommodate even large frozen items such as turkeys, while permitting free circulation of zero-degree air for maximum freezing efficiency. Six shelves in the door provide convenient, fingertip storage of juice, vegetables and other smaller frozen items.

You'll never have to defrost many freezers either, because it's done automatically. To keep them clean all you do is wipe up crumbs or accidental spills — a simple job since the smooth interior has no dirt-hiding crevices.

To preserve fresh quality and nutritive value in frozen foods, freezers have an easy-to-reach adjustable cold control that allows you to maintain zero-degree temperature. And to keep cold air in and warm air out, the door seals tightly all around with a magnetic door gasket.

A freezer may be just the Christmas gift to make your life a little more pleasant.

Jewelry great for teens

Christmas is the time to give lasting gifts to jeans-clad young. The kind of stocking treasure they will really treasure because it's genuine and lasting, definitely not throw-away.

Gifts that come prestige-packed and loaded with young charm have all the ecxitement and flavor of that waiting-for-Santa time of not so long ago.

Neat notes are beginning to sound in youthful wardrobes and wonder of wonders, dressing up in a dress is the latest female discovery! Aiding and abetting this headlining change is gold filled jewelry, observes the Jewelry Industry Council. Great for greeting a happy young face on Christmas morn is anything in a Victorian mood smoky topaz, jade, amethyst, scarabs in traditional Old World or modern New World settings. The rigid neckwire that's V'd to keep suspendables centered and neat and the suspendables themselves—modern sculptured neckdrops, pins—are more ideas.

Earrings gift in the latest button styles.

Bangles should be bountiful to row up the arm in different gold filled tetxures and widths, in clear and colored pastic.

Pins pin on cute messages.

Watches in blown up bubble shapes, clear or exotically colored Lucite, with link bracelets, cartoon character faces, pendant timers belong to the important gift category.

So does sterling silver jewelry the precious discovery of the young. There are pendants with a Christmas theme, earrings, rings of thin silver wire that can be changed in shape every time she wears them, delicate flower rings, simple bands with lots of open-work or stone-set with turquoise, amethyst.

Cultured pearl jewelry, heart shaped Linde stars Zodiac pendants of sterling silver, a travel alarm or pedestal shaped bedroom clock gift the young girl now as well as the young woman of the future.

Especially for her future is sterling silver flatware and even holloware. Initially, her first silver place setting is a gift from her parents who welcome the advice and help of the jeweler when their "little girl" is ready to choose the silver pattern that will reign in her future home. To put more of a happy shine on her holiday, and her future, generous gifters might consider silver as salt and pepper shakers, a basket for candy an Early American candle snuffer, measuring spooons, a photo ornament that can hold four photos of her favorite people and hang from a strand after the tree comes down. And on this Christmas so near the Bicentennial, begin a spoon collection for her that's redolent with Early American history.

For that teen man in your life, try the personality gifting approach with jewelry. Cuff links, belt buckle, ke ring, all with his initials. A ident bracelet with bold lin band, a ring with his initia and a Linde star accent fo low the same gift route.

A watch for him should b sporty and well on view eve with a sports symbol on it face. He likes the colored Lu cite cases and their unusua shapes, too. For dres up—and he's doing it, too—t thin case and leather strap are called for the giftwrapp ing.

Bracelets for him are a must. Terrific styles come in silver, copper even brass. He and that special girl might even ecxhange matching bracelets.

A digital clock-radio, a tankard or mug of pewter a Bicentennial inspired Liberty Bell bank in silver will add a special jewelry something to his favorite nook.
